Side Spring Corsets
The Corsets of Distinction.

Figure Control

Masterfront double front-laced Corsets are a patented exclusive feature controlling the figure on an entirely new principle, so as to ensure Comfort, Hygiene, and Durability, and meet the Dictates of Fashion.

There are reasons why every woman should wear the new double front-laced model.

- The double lacing adjustment in front allows the busk to remain central, avoiding any unequal support.
- The closed back gives the fascinating and delightful figure line obviating the unsightly broad appearance.
- The elastic gores under the arms allow free body movement, and the elastic web at the bottom of the skirt is an added acquisition for comfort when sitting.
- Masterfront construction solves the problem of corset weakness as the busk edge is reinforced by a double thickness of its own material.

ADVICE WORTH HAVING

may generally be expected from those who speak with authority born of experience. Experience teaches many lessons; those who have learnt them are best fitted to advise others. There are many people to-day who know the value of that excellent digestive medicine—Beecham's Pills—from their own experience. They have themselves taken this medicine and proved its worth in the treatment of ailments of the digestive system. They recommend the medicine with enthusiasm; they strongly advise every sufferer from stomach trouble to do what they have done. Good results follow the taking of Beecham's Pills. For all the common digestive disorders such as acidity, biliousness, sick headache, flatulence and constipation, they may be taken with the greatest confidence. They provide a sure and a short way to recovery. Those who desire physical fitness should lose no time in availing themselves of the great corrective and restorative properties possessed by this popular preparation. Ask anybody about Beecham's Pills who is in the habit of using them. Their advice is worth having and is worth following. Every sufferer from digestive troubles should

The Irish Close Championships yesterday reached the semi-final stages, and some keen and interesting tennis was seen in the various events. In the Gentlemen's Singles, E. D. Mrs. Beatty and Miss Jackson will contest the ladies' final, and they should provide a keen struggle. ALL-ENGLAND CHAMPIONSHIPS.

AMERICANS' GOOD PLAY.

For the Championships Meeting at Wimbledon yesterday, two men's individual contests figured on the show court, and both claimed international interest. A. E. Beamish, the old Harrovian, was completely outplayed by R. Lycett, the Australian, though he steadied himself to win the third of the four sets; while J. Brugnon, a brilliant young member of the French school, went down badly before R. N. Williams, whose playing was so effective that the Frenchman could never really settle down to his game, and the veteran Lancashire player, A. S. Drew, was put out after fighting stubbornly by another American in C. S. Garland, against whom he could only take seven games in the three sets. As a rehearsal for the coming Davis Cup-tie at Eastbourne, there was a particularly attractive Franco-American contest in the first round of the Men's Doubles between Gobert and Laurentz for the Tricolour, and Johnstone and Tilder for the Stars and Stripes. The promise of a fine match was fully realised. It was full of brilliant tennis, and the success of the American pair was richly earned, for, after they had won the first two sets in a manner that clearly stamped their superiority, the French pair made a heroic effort to pull the match round. After taking the third set, however, they put up a great fight in the next, in which 16 games were played before the match was won by Johnstone and his partner. Both Mrs. Lambert Chambers and Miss Ryan, the American, who are strongly fancied to contest the issue of the All-Comers' Competition for the right to meet Mlle. Lenglen in the challenge round, won their matches yesterday by two straight sets, but in each case the loser—Mrs. Tuckey and Mrs. Beamish, respectively—put up a particularly good game; while another event of all-absorbing interest was the appearance in the Mixed Doubles of G. L. Patterson and Mlle. Lenglen, the Singles Champions of last year, against C. S. Garland and Mrs. Mallory, a strong American combination, who played good tennis, but were always outclassed. They did not win a point until the third game in the second set, and though the score stood 2 all at one time, Patterson and his partner won the second set, and the match at 6-3. Later in the afternoon, in the Men's Doubles, the meeting between Major Kingscote and J. C. Parke against H. Roper Barrett and M. J. G. Ritchie produced another keen battle, and aroused a great deal of interest, but the honours after a splendidly-contested second set went to the former in three straight sets.

WOODBROOK L.T.C. OPEN TOURNAMENT.

The above Open Tournament will be held at Woodbrook, Bray, on Monday, 5th July, and following days. The programme comprises five open and five handicap events. In the Ladies' and Gentlemen's Open Singles, Gentlemen's Open Doubles, and the Mixed Open Doubles, in addition to valuable prizes, Challenge Cups will be competed for, which, if won three years in succession by the same players, will become their absolute property. For particulars and Entry Forms apply to the Hon. Secretary, Woodbrook L.T.C., Woodbrook, Bray.—(Advt.)

IRISH COMMAND CHAMPIONSHIP MEETING.

President—General Right Hon. Sir C. F. N. Macready, G.C.M.G., K.C.B. Managing Committee—Brigadier-General C. C. Onslow, C.B.E., D.S.O. (Chairman); Lieutenant-Colonel G. V. Hill, D.S.O. (Hon. Secretary); Major P. Rowan, D.S.O.; Major G. C. Downes, D.S.O., M.C.; Captain C. Lamb, Captain K. S. Wootten, Captain R. H. Jerman, M.C. Chief Judge—Mr. H. M. Findlay, I.A.A.A. Starter—Mr. J. T. Magee, I.A.A.A.

The first Athletic Championship Meeting to be held under the management of the Irish Command Sports Control Board entered on its initial stage at the Lansdowne road enclosure yesterday, when the eliminating trials in the various events were decided. Formed subsequent to last year's championships at the Curragh, the Board has already accomplished excellent work in the direction of fostering athletics in the Command, not only among the rank and file, but among the commissioned ranks also. Indeed, a pleasing feature of yesterday's meeting was the big entry received from officers from the various units, and the keen rivalry displayed by all ranks in their efforts to achieve championship honours for their respective regiments. The form exhibited, when one considers that athletics in the Army had for so long been a dead letter, was, all round, very promising, and the finals to-day, when a resumption will be made at 2.30, are likely to furnish a sequence of thoroughly interesting finishes. From a spectacular point of view, the Relay Race and the Three Miles Championship were, perhaps, the most attractive events on the programme. On the times, the Relay looks like going to the 2nd Yorkshires, whose team ran right well. Sergeant Powell, who ran second to Sergeant Old in the Cross-Country Championship at the Curragh last year, put up a very creditable performance in the Three Miles, the issue of which he had in safe keeping with three laps to go, and, doubtless, had he been pushed he would have recorded better time. In the 100 Yards the best performances were those by Lance-Corporal Palmer, Lieutenant Henderson, and Lieutenant Barber, who won their heats in 10 4-5 secs., and the final to-day should be productive of one of the closest finishes of the meeting. Lieutenant Straker, in addition to qualifying for the final for the Hurdles, survived the elementary process in the High Jump, and Lieutenant Wogan-Brown's time in his heat in the 880 Yards is suggestive of a victory this afternoon in that event. A fairly level lot remain in the 220 Yards, and here again Lieutenant Henderson, Lance-Corporal Palmer, and Lieutenant Barber will, doubtless, have a fine set-to in the final. Lieutenant Jarman, after a splendid finish with Lieutenant Barber, won the fastest heat in the 440 Yards, but Lance-Corporal Holmes, who finished alone in his heat, seems capable of doing better than his 58 seconds of yesterday. Details:—The following qualified for the final:—

SPORTING NEWS.

BALDOYLE CHARITY MEETING—THIS DAY.

Apart altogether from the promise of good sport held out by the programme, to-day's fixture at Baldoyle should appeal strongly to the public, having regard to the fact that the entire profits are to be handed over to the National Maternity Hospital in Holles street, and it is to be hoped that that very deserving institution will substantially benefit. Fine weather, indeed, is all that is needed to ensure such a result, for the racing is certain to be interesting, and that fields will be of satisfactory strength is indicated by the large number of horses, close on seventy, that are under orders to meet their engagements. Selections are as follow:—

Saturday Plate—Mintoi.
Hospital Plate—Coup d'Essai.
Benefit Plate—Look In.
Dublin Plate—Shotmaker or Ardscull.
Holles Street Plate—Glenstella or Nellie Chase.

DEATH OF FAMOUS STEEPLECHASER.

TROYTOWN SUSTAINS FATAL INJURIES.

(PRESS ASSOCIATION FOREIGN SPECIAL.)

PARIS, FRIDAY.

Troytown, the winner of this year's Liverpool Grand National, has had to be destroyed owing to injuries from a fall sustained while running in the Prix des Drags here to-day. The famous Irish steeplechaser broke a leg in jumping the brook.

The news of the death of Troytown will cause very general regret, for the horse had become a public idol, both in Ireland and across the Channel, and his owner, Major Gerrard, of Navan, is to be commiserated with in the loss of such a sterling performer, for which he had declined some very big offers. Troytown's achievements are so fresh in the memory of the racing community that it is needless to recapitulate them, the most noteworthy being his success in the Grand National last March and his brilliant victory in the Grand Steeplechase de Paris twelve months ago, these being the two greatest steeplechases in the world. On Sunday last he again essayed to carry off the big Paris race, in which he finished third to Coq Gaulois and Heros XII., to both of which horses he was conceding a good deal of weight.

CRICKET.

LEINSTER v. DUBLIN UNIVERSITY.

Leinster were seen to great advantage in their return match with Dublin University, which commenced yesterday at Rathmines, and, as matters stand, are in a commanding position, as, having declared with four wickets down for 302, they got three of the best Trinity batsmen out for 67. R. H. Lambert and Kempster gave the home side a fine start, putting on 111 inside an hour before the former was well held by Heaslip for 51. From the outset Lambert hit with the greatest freedom, and, in a display which was marred by only one chance early on, hit ten 4's. Kempster left a little later, having been at the wicket an hour and ten minutes for 72. Batting faultlessly, he hit a 6 and eight 4's. The stand of the innings came, however, when S. D. Lambert and Carr became partners in support of the fourth wicket. Runs were put on at a rapid rate, 172 being added to the score when Lambert was held off a rising ball by Kelly. He made 64 in quite his best form, and during his stay of an hour and twenty-five minutes hit six 4's. With Lambert's dismissal at 302, the innings was declared, having been in progress just three hours, Carr being unbeaten with 102 to his credit. Batting for one and a half hours, he gave an almost perfect display. His timing and placing were splendid, and, but for a chance in the slips when 29, his innings, which included a 6 and seventeen 4's, was without fault. Allen, who bore the brunt of the 'Varsity attack, got two wickets for 113 runs. Trinity had an hour and a quarter's batting, and lost Rollins, Power, and Kelly (all to catches in the slips by Cordner) for 67 runs. Play will be resumed to-day at 1.30. Score:—

NAVY v. ARMY.

The annual match between the Navy and Army attracted a fairly large company to Lord's yesterday, and in bright sunshine the onlookers thoroughly enjoyed the breezy cricket. The senior service had much the worst of the opening proceedings upon a perfect pitch and an extremely fast outfield, for after the soldiers had scored 239 for four wickets in an hour and fifty-five minutes before lunch, they ultimately registered a total of 424 in three hours and forty minutes. Lieut. P. V. Williams and Lieut. M. P. Burrows added 184 runs for the second partnership in eighty minutes, and the former's brilliant 146 only occupied an hour and forty minutes. He was third out at 209, having given two chances, the first before he scored, and hitting 2 sixes and 25 fours. Major H. W. Yates took eighty minutes over his faultlessly dashing 97, and hit 3 sixes and a dozen fours. The Navy had two hours' batting, and scored 153 for five wickets, Major R. A. Brooks distinguishing himself with some admirably timed hitting for an hour, during which he scored 77 (not out). Score:—

	1st Inns.
The Army	424
The Navy	153 (5 wkts.)

ESSEX v. GLOUCESTERSHIRE.

The Colchester festival had a surprising finish before lunch yesterday, Essex losing by an innings and 56 runs. Score:—

MOTOR CYCLING.

TWENTY-FOUR HOURS' OPEN TRIAL.

The annual twenty-four hours' open reliability trial of the Dublin and District Motor Cycle Club started last evening at 7 o'clock from the Tolka Bridge, Drumcondra, when W. H. Freeman, the Hon. Secretary of the Club, led the way to Belfast on his Indian sidecar. He was followed at intervals of one minute by each of the other starters, of whom 35 answered their names out of the 39 entrants. The large number of Southern competitors was a feature of the entry. The route of the trial is to Donegal and back, a distance of approximately 400 miles, but the official route was lengthened by reason of the necessity of avoiding Londonderry. With this object the competitors will go from Dungiven to Strabane, joining the original route at Letterkenny. The first portion of the journey to Belfast was made by the usual main road through Drogheda, Dundalk, Newry, and Banbridge. To minimise the amount of night riding a longer stay than usual was made at Belfast, and at dawn this morning the men were due to leave that city. The ascent of Glengesh Hill, near Ardara, is the crucial point of the trial, and, after it, the competitors will return to Dublin by an easy route, the chief points touched on the return journey being Donegal, Enniskillen, Cavan, Kells, and Navan. The finish of the trial is at the Castleknock Gate of the Phœnix Park, where the first man is due at 8.55 o'clock this evening.

LAW REPORTS.

DECEASED SOLDIER'S ESTATE.—Before Mr. Justice Kenny, an application was made by Mr. John O'Byrne (instructed by Mr. B. J. Goff), on behalf of Marian Doyle, who formerly resided in the County Roscommon, for an order that a letter which was written by her brother, Martin Doyle, a soldier, deceased, be regarded as a will, and that it be admitted to probate. Doyle was living in Australia at the commencement of the war, and he joined the Australian Imperial Forces in 1915. He served in France and in the Dardanelles, and was sent to England in 1917, and he remained either in England or in Ireland until February, 1919, when he wrote the letter from Sandhill Camp in England, to his sister, who was a nurse at St. Leonard's Hospital, Shoreditch, London. In that letter he enclosed a bank deposit receipt for £215 14/10, and told her that if anything should happen to him the money was to be hers. Doyle was subsequently transferred to the First Australian General Hospital at South Veney, where he died. Counsel urged that at the time the letter was written a state of war existed, and that Doyle might have been sent to the front. The Armistice did not conclude the Peace, and he argued that Doyle was, to all intents and purposes, on active service when he wrote the letter, and that it ought to be regarded as a soldier's will. Mr. Justice Kenny said that Doyle had been for nearly two years in England or in Ireland, and that he had every opportunity of making a formal will. He could not hold that when Doyle wrote the letter he was on active service, and, therefore, he (the judge) could not allow it to be proved as Doyle's will. He directed that the applicant should have her costs out of the estate.

ULSTER MATRIMONIAL SUIT.—In the King's Bench Division, before Mr. Justice Kenny, in the matrimonial suit of Morton v. Morton, Mr. Best, K.C., with whom was Mr. Serjeant Hanna and Mr. Charles Murphy (instructed by Mr. William Alexander), moved on behalf of the petitioner, Robert Morton, jun., who resides at Cranmore, near Ballymena, for an order that the order of June 13th inst. be varied, by reducing the rate of alimony pendente lite payable to the respondent to £100 per annum, or such order as the Court might seem fit. The order which it was sought to set aside fixed the alimony at the rate of £300 a year. In addition, the lady was entitled to draw the income of stocks and shares amounting to £150 a year. Since the order was made, the husband had obtained custody of the two children. Under these circumstances, the petitioner submitted that it was not necessary that the respondent should be paid alimony on such a large scale. The petitioner did not know where the lady was. She did not appear at the last trial, in Belfast. Mr. Justice Kenny varied the order by reducing the alimony to £250 a year. Mr. H. M. Thompson, K.C., with whom was Mr. Megaw (instructed by Messrs. Lane and Boyle), appeared for the respondent.

LINDSAY v. TOTTENHAM.—In our report of this case in our issue of the 23rd inst., it was stated that Captain and Mrs. Lindsay had gone to reside at Major Tottenham's as paying guests." We are desired to say that this statement was incorrect, and that neither Captain nor Mrs. Lindsay was a paying guest of Major Tottenham.

Hovis Bread is simply pure, light white flour with the golden germ of the wheat added to it.

is, therefore, entirely different from ordinary wholemeal brown breads made heavy and indigestible with bran and husks.

No bread is so digestible nor so nourishing.

It alone is enriched by the addition of the natural organic phosphates of the golden wheat germ.

NATIONAL HEALTH INSURANCE COMMISSION (IRELAND).
The National Health Insurance Act, 1920, which comes into operation on the 5th July next, makes important changes in the benefits and contributions under the Health Insurance Scheme.
The object of the changes is to provide for an increase in the rates of benefits in view of the fall in the value of money. The normal rate of sickness benefit will be raised from 10/- to 15/- a week in the case of men, and from 7/6 to 12/- a week in the case of women; disablement benefit will become 7/6 a week instead of 5/- for both men and women; and the amount of maternity benefit will be raised from 30/- to 40/-.
In order to provide for the increase of benefits the joint weekly contribution payable by the employer is to be increased from 5½d. to 8d. in the case of men, and from 4½d. to 7d. in the case of women. The employer's portion of the contribution will become 4d. instead of 2½d. in the normal case, and the employé's portion is increased by 1d. a week, i.e., to 4d. for men and 3d. for women. In certain cases where low wages are paid the employer will pay a larger, and the worker a smaller, portion of the joint contribution. The contribution cards for the second half-year of 1920 must in all cases be stamped at the rate of 8d. a week for men and 7d. for women; stamps of these values will be on sale at Post Offices.

NEW CHURCH TO OUR LADY OF LOURDES,
LR. GLOUCESTER STREET, DUBLIN.
A Temporary Edifice has been erected on the site secured for the New Church, which is badly needed in this locality.
It is already crowded, and the Shrine has aroused a deep spirit of Devotion to Our Lady of Lourdes, with most beneficial results among the people.
The Accommodation afforded by the Temporary Structure is inadequate. The Administrator strongly appeals to the Catholics of Dublin and of Ireland for the means to undertake the building of the New Church. The district being one of the most densely populated and poorest in the city, little pecuniary aid can be expected from it.
The Holy Sacrifice of the Mass will be offered EACH WEEK for Subscribers.
Subscriptions will be thankfully received by any of the Clergy, or by Very Rev. RICHARD BOWDEN, Adm., 83 Marlborough street, Dublin.

WEATHER FORECAST.
General Inference.—The pressure changes are slight and rather irregular, but the low pressure on the Atlantic appears to be extending slowly over these islands. Unsettled weather with much cloud generally, rain or showers in most localities and fairer intervals, is probable for a day or two.
Ireland.—Wind S.W. or W., moderate or light, overcast or cloudy, some rain or showers, fair intervals, visibility fair, moderate temperature.

The White Star liner Olympic left Southampton for New York yesterday on her first voyage after being reconditioned and converted into an oil-burner, with nearly three thousand passengers and crew. The new machinery with which the ship has been fitted will not be used on the outward journey, and it is expected that New York will be reached on July 2. The full complement of wireless operators is on board. A large company, including the American Ambassador and Mrs. Davis, saw the boat trains away from Waterloo Station.

The Irish Times.

SATURDAY, JUNE 26, 1920.

Greek despatches from Smyrna report the annihilation of a Turkish Army Corps at Philadelphia, together with the capture of 8,000 men, with guns and booty.

The House of Commons yesterday passed the financial resolutions for the Resident Magistrates (Ireland) Bill and the Sheriffs (Ireland) Bill.

Lord Curzon, in the House of Lords yesterday, made a statement on the position in Mesopotamia. He urged that it was necessary to maintain the present system of administration there until the Peace Treaty was signed and peace conditions were restored.

Dr. Orpen, who presided at the Limerick Diocesan Synod yesterday, referring to the state of Ireland, said that the country must suffer intensely while strife between brethren, which was the saddest of all strife, continued.

Dr. Millar, addressing the Waterford and Lismore Diocesan Synod yesterday, suggested that the present Home Rule Bill should be withdrawn, and that men of all classes in Ireland should come together and try to find a solution.

Two mail trains were robbed by armed men in Ireland yesterday. In one case it is said that letters for the Lord Lieutenant and Dublin Castle were carried away.

Two masked and armed men stole a sum of £1,000 from the Great Northern Railway offices in Belfast yesterday.

Early yesterday morning armed and disguised men made their way into several houses in Bantry. A young man was shot dead in his bed, and three houses, all occupied by Sinn Feiners, were set on fire.

Owing to the refusal of railway guards and engine-drivers to work trains carrying policemen there is much dislocation of passenger traffic on lines in the South of Ireland. On some branches all passenger services have been suspended.

The mail car from Dundalk to Shercock was robbed yesterday by armed men, who tied the driver and a passenger to a gate while the bags were being searched.

Conferences of magistrates and other citizens representing all parties were held in Derry yesterday with a view to making efforts to bring about peace in the city. The city was quiet yesterday, with the exception of occasional sniping in some of the more disturbed areas.

Major Gerrard's famous steeplechase horse, Troytown, the winner of this year's Grand National, broke a leg when running in a race at Paris yesterday and had to be destroyed.

The New War.

The war of the Greeks against the Turks has begun with startling rapidity. The Allied Conference which accepted the offer of M. Venizelos was held on Monday last, and on the next day the Greek Army launched its offensive in Asia Minor. Operations began at Smyrna. Here the port was occupied by Hellenic troops, and all the Turkish offices in the town were seized. A simultaneous advance was made along the railways Smyrna-Akhissar-Balikesri-Panderma, and Smyrna-Ushak-Afium Karailissa (a junction on the famous Hamburg-Baghdad route). Mustapha Kemal seems to have been taken completely by surprise. Akhissar was occupied on Tuesday, and the 13th Greek Division entered Salihli on Wednesday evening, having taken the Mermerch Lake Pass by storm. The Greek Legation in London announces that the triangle formed by the two railways and the line Akhissar-Salihi has been completely cleared of enemy forces, and cavalry columns have advanced in the direction of Kulah, some eighty miles due east of Smyrna. The Turks, it is stated, are retreating in disorder all along the line, and last night the Greeks announced that a Turkish Army Corps had been surrounded in Allah Shehr (the Biblical Philadelphia). Eight thousand Turks were killed, wounded, or captured, and large quantities of guns and other material of war fell into the hands of the Greeks. For the moment, therefore, the Greek offensive seems to have been a complete success. No doubt, the element of surprise has played some part in the quick development of the offensive. The Hellenic troops, under the command of General Baraskegopulos, are well equipped and supplied with experienced officers. Their number is estimated at 10,000, but large reinforcements are expected to be sent from Greece to the scene of action, and, if Jaffer Tayer's rebel bands in Eastern Thrace can be dispersed before they have had time to solidify into an army, all the available Greek contingents in that region will be concentrated in Asia Minor.

To the average reader, who has not the help of a map, the place names of Asia Minor do not convey much meaning. There are three main factors which influence the situation, however, and should not be ignored by the British public. In the first place, Mustapha Kemal already has a force of about 50,000 men. They are not all regular troops, but they are all excellent fighters—man for man probably superior to the Greeks. In the next place, his forces are increasing every day. The hatred of the Turk for the Greek is only equalled by that of the Greek for the Turk. Hitherto Mustapha Kemal has been a so-called "rebel" leader. In other words, his supporters have not been "recognised" by the central Government in Constantinople. Just as in the case of Russia, however, an attack by the hated foreigner is a wonderful solvent of domestic quarrels. A safe rule of conduct is never to interfere in a row between a man and his wife, as both are likely to turn on the "outsider." The Greek offensive will make a hero of Mustapha Kemal throughout Turkey. Europe must reckon with a general rally to his tattered flag. Finally, the Greeks are fighting in the enemy's land. So far their advance has been comparatively easy; but they seem now to have reached the foothills of a wild, mountainous region eminently suited to guerrilla warfare, but easily disastrous for disciplined armies. The Turkish leader makes no secret of his purpose. "I can make it impossible," he has declared, "for any European Power to make Asia Minor a peacable country." We believe him. His strategy will involve almost continual retirement. Relying on the almost fanatical zeal of the Greeks, he will try to lure them into his strongholds among the mountains, where they would be at his mercy. Night and day they would be harassed by his "snipers." Their communications would be constantly interrupted, and, sooner or later, they would be forced either to abandon their campaign or to appeal to the European Allies for assistance.

No Briton can contemplate the possibility of another war with an easy mind. Yet, should the Greeks' adventure last much longer, the Allies almost certainly will be drawn into its vortex. Already the Turks are showing signs of hostility to Great Britain; they know that the Greek attack was planned at Hythe. In the neighbourhood of Ismid our troops are engaged in miniature warfare. All along the shore of the Sea of Marmora, and at the Dardanelles, the Turks are becoming truculent and aggressive, and British officers have been refused permission to land at various ports on the coast. It is not at all unlikely, therefore, that we shall find ourselves involved one of these fine days in what our London Correspondent describes as another "exotic enterprise." The War Office is strengthening the Army Reserve by 20,000 men. The Fleet has already been in action in the Sea of Marmora, and fifteen-inch shells have been doing deadly work among the Turks. There is, of course, a possibility that the Greeks may dispose of Mustapha Kemal "off their own bat," and enforce the terms of the Turkish Treaty to the satisfaction of everybody concerned. In the more probable event of their failure, it must be remembered that they are our Allies, and that, without the sanction of Great Britain and France, they could not have begun to fight. Morally we are responsible for their safety; and, moreover, their defeat would remove one of the last props from our tottering prestige in the East. The situation is fraught with peril for the British Empire. There has been a muddle in Mesopotamia and a muddle in Persia. Unless we are greatly mistaken the Dyer affair has seriously embarrassed our position in India; and our policy in Palestine has been anything but a success. Throughout Islam, therefore, the influence of the British Raj is being undermined. A further failure in Asia Minor would be an Imperial calamity.

Adopted Towns.

Encouraging accounts have been published from time to time of the work of reconstruction in the devastated areas of France. Yet, though much has been done, only the fringe of the great task has been touched. Hundreds of thousands of persons are still homeless; scores of towns and villages which were reduced to ruins by German shells have still to be rebuilt; and large tracks of what was once fertile land still lie desolated. Agricultural operations cannot be resumed on the pre-war scale until the miles of barbed wire which were used by the Allied and German Armies have been removed. The destruction of the factories has been so thorough and systematic that all industrial activity, apart from agriculture, is at a stand-still. Consequently many of the inhabitants are not merely homeless, but workless. The best way to assist them is to supply them with the means whereby they can recover their soil from the appalling blight of destruction brought by the war and re-build their shattered industries. A few weeks ago a movement with that object was started in England, and it promises to be attended by most gratifying results. The promoters have undertaken to find British towns which will act as "god-parents" to the war-ravaged towns and villages of France, and give them practical aid and sympathy in the work of reconstruction. Already some fifty British towns have announced their willingness to participate in the scheme. There is no thought of relieving Germany of her obligation to make reparation for the havoc that she has wrought. The movement is simply a British effort to help our sorely-pressed neighbours and to provide them with homes, furniture, clothing, and the decencies of life while the slow process of State reparation is taking place. Once a British centre has adopted a French centre the two centres will be left to "carry on" in direct communication with each other. Both will be in touch with the Central Committee which has been formed to supervise the arrangements, but the Committee will not interfere in the actual work of relief. Its functions will be of a purely advisory nature. Subscribers to local relief funds, therefore, will have a guarantee that their contributions will not be utilised to support a huge central administrative machine. British shipping companies and the French Government have promised to make important concessions in favour of the scheme. Several of the former have undertaken to carry goods intended for the inhabitants of an "adopted" town at half the ordinary freight charges, and the French Government has decided that they shall enter the country free of Customs duties. Moreover, they will be carried free on the railways. The scheme makes a powerful appeal to the public imagination, and none could be better calculated to strengthen the bonds of friendship which the war has forged.

Caught Out.

Food prices continue to rise in spite of the gradual disappearance of Government control, and there is some plausible explanation of every fresh impost. We are warned to prepare for another increase in the price of jam. "Why?" we ask, since the Government recently purchased the whole of the Mauritius production of sugar at a cost well below the present market rates. The official reply is that the saving in Mauritius is set off by the big prices that must be paid to the Cuban planters. The harassed householder believes, however, and will believe to the end of the chapter, that a main cause of high prices is unscrupulous "profiteering." In spite of all the Government's efforts "profiteering" seems to be as rampant now as it was a year ago; but the processes of modern trade are so intricate that the "profiteer" very seldom is brought to book. Occasionally, however, he makes a slip and pays the proper penalty for his greed. Just now Paris is rejoicing over an exposure of this kind. There was a sudden fall, some days ago, in the price of vegetables, and the speculators in the Central Markets were dismayed. Many of them advised their buyers in the provinces to stop further consignments until the market had improved. No doubt, most of these persons disguised their messages, but one of the largest distributors was not so cautious. He telegraphed frantically to his agent, "Stop sending anything for Heaven's sake; downfall of green peas." The telegram was forwarded from the Post Office to the Prefecture of Police, and the "profiteer" is now languishing in the prison of La Santé. In this country he probably would have escaped with a ten shilling fine. The incident not only has filled Paris with righteous satisfaction, but has given it a new catch-word. The familiar comment on any disconcerting incident—"C'est la guerre"—has been replaced by, "Débâcle sur les pois verts."

Golfing Fashions.

All British sportsmen welcome the American invasion and wish that, whether the contest be in lawn tennis or golf or rowing or athletics, the best men will win. We may hope, however, without discourtesy, that young America's ideas in sporting dress will receive little encouragement here. Mr. Tilden's "Teddy Bear" wrappers, which now share with Mary Pickford the honours of the photographic newspapers, are, perhaps, only a personal eccentricity; but Walter Hagen's golfing attire is a danger-signal. Hagen, who keeps a motor car and stays at a fashionable hotel, seems to be a sort of super-professional. We are told by a Press from which no aspect of humanity is alien that his wardrobe includes twelve golfing suits, nine pairs of shoes, ten woollen sweaters, and thirty pairs of stockings. In the eliminating test on Thursday for the Open Championship (when he did a magnificent round) he appeared as an elaborate "scheme" in black and white. He wore a black sleeveless jersey over a white shirt, white knickerbockers, and black and white shoes. If the fashion spreads—if our young golfing bloods, whose tasselled brogues already are an offence to their conservative elders, go in for shirt-sleeves and colour schemes—anything may happen. Men will not hesitate to attack the sanctity of marriage and the Dublin University First XI. will turn out in Garibaldi blouses. A prime element in the charm of golf for eighty per cent. of the men who play it is the old, disreputable coat that they don punctually on Saturday afternoons with a sigh of joy. On the day when it is banished in favour of creations à la Hagen a legion of good men, whom Britain can ill afford to lose, will drown themselves in the nineteenth hole.

CHARITY GAMBLING.
Letter from the Archbishop of Dublin.
TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.
SIR,—It has come to my knowledge that, at a recent effort in support of one of the hospitals of the City of Dublin, gambling of a specially dangerous kind was resorted to on a large scale. It was not the mere holding of raffles—the method so often adopted at bazaars to get rid of things otherwise unsaleable—but games of chance similar to those which form the attraction at the great gambling resorts of the Continent.
May I venture to say that, if these methods are adopted in future efforts for our hospitals, it will have the effect of alienating the sympathy of many of the best supporters of our great charities, and, still more serious, it will make these fêtes a very demoralising influence in the community?—Yours, etc.,

IRELAND UNDER SINN FEIN.
A Special Correspondent of The Times dealing with Ireland under Sinn Fein, and particularly referring to Belfast, points out that there is every reason to believe that, although the Ulster Volunteers have been, to some extent, reorganised and called out as armed Vigilance Committees, their instructions are to avoid, so far as possible, any intervention in the quarrel between Sinn Fein and the Government. Any attack on the civilian population would be at once resisted with all fierceness. But when there is an attack on military or police the Ulster Volunteers, if appealed to for help, would, doubtless, give it. Unless called in they are not likely to rush into the fray, nor are the police likely to summon them, except in dire necessity. The reason is, that everybody, including the Government, realises that a collision between Protestant and Catholic civilians in Ulster is likely to have very terrible consequences. And even if—as I think likely on the whole—the danger point of July 12th be successfully rounded in Belfast through an exercise of general good sense, the danger of such collisions must remain permanent, a standing menace over all the province, unless and until a working settlement can be reached. Of that what are the chances? The worst factor in the Belfast situation is, that almost everybody in all camps believes the Government's protestations and the Government bill to be only what the Army calls "eye-wash." Some rather admire the shrewdness. It is, they think, only what the Convention was—a device to gain time. Here and there, no doubt, one man may realise that the Convention gave a real chance, which Irishmen, not extremists, playing into the hands of irreconcilables on both sides, imprudently threw away. But the average man, be he Protestant or Catholic, does not believe a word that the Government says. Only those who have been in personal contact with Ministers regard it as possible—one cannot put their feeling higher—that the bill may be meant to pass. Those who scrutinise the facts somewhat closely note that the Committee of the Belfast Corporation which went to interview Ministers has not yet reported. The inference is drawn that Sir Edward Carson gave them an authoritative hint that they need not bother further about a measure which is meant to be still-born or overlaid. Even some of those who take the matter more seriously are in doubt as to what Mr. Bonar Law intended by one reply. If the bill was not accepted in the South, he said, the existing state of affairs would continue. Does this mean, they ask, that self-government will be put into operation in Ulster only, if there is assurance that the South will not undertake to work its part of the measure? If so, the bill cannot be seriously meant. The sooner Mr. Bonar Law makes clear what he intended to convey on this point the better for everybody.

REFUSAL TO DISARM.
The Note of the Entente to the German Government intimating that the German Army must be reduced to 100,000 men, and that the Sicherheits Polizei (so-called Security Police) must be disbanded, says The Times, has been promptly answered. As the direct result of the Note, the Minister of Defence, Herr Gessler, who has only just been reappointed in the new Cabinet, has tendered his resignation. Meanwhile reports of an exceedingly doubtful character continue to appear in the Press of the German Right, describing in lurid terms the outbreak of Communist riots in various parts of the country. No details of these riots appear to be forthcoming, and it is frankly stated by the Freiheit, the organ of the Independent Socialists, that these reports are merely part of a campaign to give force to the demand for the retention of a great Army. The tone of the German Government in regard to disarmament may be judged from a German wireless message sent out yesterday from the stations of the German Government, which said: "With regard to the recent Entente Notes on the disarmament of Germany, the Press of the German Right expresses the view that the Entente is seriously desirous for the Bolshevisation of Germany."

THE LABOUR PARTY'S REJECTIONS.
The Times, in a leading article to-day, says:—The list of rejected proposals at the Labour Party's Conference this week is quite remarkable. It includes all the extreme policies laid before the meeting—namely, a general strike for the benefit of Bolshevist Russia, both Prohibition and State acquisition of the liquor trade, and, lastly, affiliation to the Third International. The last rejection, emphasised by a majority of 12 to 1, is the most significant. It is the answer to Lenin's famous message to British Labour, which was specially prepared and despatched with a view to this very meeting. It would be interesting to know his opinion of the informants who led him into such a ridiculously false position. These gobetweens on both sides are being gradually exposed. Whether the false information they supply is due to ignorance, self-deception, or guile is of little consequence; the confidence of their employers or of their dupes can hardly stand such a shock as the present exposure. On the whole, the Conference has revealed the Labour Party in sober and cautious mood. The treatment of the liquor question was eminently sane, and the rejection of the motion for a general strike another sign of sobriety. We note the facts, but warn readers not to draw a more rosy conclusion than they warrant, and most emphatically not to indulge in complacent reflections. We have got over some troubles and drifted for a time into quieter waters, but the real trial has still to come.

ATHENS CONFIDENT.
The Athens Correspondent of The Times, in a message dated June 23 (delayed), says—News of the mandate to the Greek Army to deal with the Turkish Nationalists has produced great satisfaction here. This morning's official news announces that the military operations started yesterday. Kemal's troops are reported to be withdrawing apparently in the direction of Ismid. Greek Headquarters express the hope that the campaign will not last more than three weeks. Satisfactory results have attended the law authorising enlistment. Volunteers are reported from Old Greece, Western Thrace, and Asia Minor. Smyrna Volunteers alone furnish one division. The object of the law is to avoid the recall of demobilised reservists who have served several years continuously.

TURKS' REPLY TO PEACE TERMS.
There is reason to believe, states the Constantinople Correspondent of The Times, that the Turkish Peace Delegates will refuse to accept the terms of the Peace Treaty with relation to Thrace and Smyrna, and will also raise objections to certain clauses of the Treaty which deal with the control of the Straits by an International Commission, on the ground that these clauses deprive the Turkish Government of effective sovereignty within the area so controlled.

DARING THEFT IN BELFAST.
RAILWAY PAY OFFICE RAIDED.
£1,000 CARRIED AWAY.
While two clerks were engaged in making up the pay envelopes of men employed at the Great Northern Railway Terminus in Belfast yesterday afternoon the office was entered by two men wearing masks. One of them held up the clerks with a revolver, while the other quickly filled a large bag with the money lying on the table. The men then rapidly decamped, and succeeded in getting clear away in spite of the fact that an alarm was at once raised. It is understood that the thieves secured a sum of about £1,000.

TITANIC MEMORIAL AT BELFAST.
To-day the Lord Lieutenant will unveil a memorial that has been erected in Donegall square, Belfast, to the memory of the twenty-two Belfast men who lost their lives by the foundering of the R.M.S. Titanic on April 15th, 1912.

LABOUR CONCILIATION.
Sir Plunket Barton will sit in the City Hall, Belfast, on Monday and Tuesday next, the 28th and 29th inst., as Chairman of the Irish Flax and Hemp Trade Board; on Wednesday, June 30th, and Thursday, July 1st, as Chairman of the Irish Linen and Cotton Household Goods and Piece Goods Trade Board; and on Friday, July 2nd, as Chairman of the Irish Rope, Twine and Net Trade Board. On Saturday, July 3rd, he will sit in Belfast as Arbitrator in the pending difference between the Workers' Union and Richardson's Chemical Manure Company. On Monday, July 5th, Sir Plunket Barton will sit at the Ministry of Labour in Dublin as Chairman of the Joint Conciliation Board set up by the Dublin Hotel and Restaurant Keepers and the Irish Transport and General Workers' Union.

THE MAGISTRACY.
The Lord Chancellor of Ireland has, on the recommendation of the Rt. Hon. the Earl of Meath, His Majesty's Lieutenant of the County, appointed Mr. J. Sherlock Vaughan, LL.D., of Crosthwaite Park, Kingstown, eldest son of the late Mr. Joseph Vaughan, J.P., of Crosthwaite Park, Kingstown, and Athlone, to the Commission of the Peace for the County of Dublin.

makes a powerful appeal to the publi[c] imagination, and none could be bette[r] calculated to strengthen the bonds o[f] friendship which the war has forged.

Caught Out.

Food prices continue to rise in spit[e] of the gradual disappearance of Govern[ment] control, and there is som[e] plausible explanation of every fres[h] impost. We are warned to prepare fo[r] another increase in the price of jam. "Why?" we ask, since the Government recently purchased the whole of the Mauritius production of sugar at a co[st] well below the present market rates. Th[e] official reply is that the saving i[n] Mauritius is set off by the big prices tha[t] must be paid to the Cuban planters. Th[e] harassed householder believes, however, and will believe to the end of the chapter, that a main cause of high prices i[s] unscrupulous "profiteering." In spite o[f] all the Government's efforts "profiteering" seems to be as rampant now as i[t] was a year ago; but the processes o[f] modern trade are so intricate that th[e] "profiteer" very seldom is brought t[o] book. Occasionally, however, he makes a slip and pays the proper penalty for hi[s] greed. Just now Paris is rejoicing over an exposure of this kind. There was a sudden fall, some days ago, in the price of vegetables, and the speculators in the Central Markets were dismayed. Many of them advised their buyers in the provinces to stop further consignments until the market had improved. No doubt, most of these persons disguised their messages, but one of the largest distributors was not so cautious. He telegraphed frantically to his agent, "Stop sending anything for Heaven's sake; downfall of green peas." The telegram was forwarded from the Post Office to the Prefecture of Police, and the "profiteer" is now languishing in the prison of La Santé. In this country he probably would have escaped with a ten shilling fine. The incident not only has filled Paris with righteous satisfaction, but has given it a new catch-word. The familiar comment on any disconcerting incident—"C'est la guerre"—has been replaced by, "Débâcle sur les pois verts."

Golfing Fashions.

All British sportsmen welcome the American invasion and wish that, whether the contest be in lawn tennis or golf or rowing or athletics, the best men will win. We may hope, however, without discourtesy, that young America's ideas in sporting dress will receive little encouragement here. Mr. Tilden's "Teddy Bear" wrappers, which now share with Mary Pickford the honours of the photographic newspapers, are, perhaps, only a personal eccentricity; but Walter Hagen's golfing attire is a danger-signal. Hagen, who keeps a motor car and stays at a fashionable hotel, seems to be a sort of super-professional. We are told by a Press from which no aspect of humanity is alien that his wardrobe includes twelve golfing suits, nine pairs of shoes, ten woollen sweaters, and thirty pairs of stockings. In the eliminating test on Thursday for the Open Championship (when he did a magnificent round) he appeared as an elaborate "scheme" in black and white. He wore a black sleeveless jersey over a white shirt, white knickerbockers, and black and white shoes. If the fashion spreads—if our young golfing bloods, whose tasselled brogues already are an offence to their conservative elders, go in for shirt-sleeves and colour schemes—anything may happen. LONDON CORRESPONDENCE.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON, FRIDAY NIGHT.

Lord Monteagle's Home Rule Bill, of which the text is published to-day, provides for the summoning of an Irish Constituent Assembly, elected on the proportional representation system. The Assembly is then to frame a constitution, the only matters outside its scope being the Crown, the making of peace and war, the Navy, Army, and Air Force; treaties, except commercial treaties.

All forces of the Crown, except those necessary for defence against foreign Powers, are to be withdrawn, and the Irish Government may raise a territorial force for employment in Ireland, which will not, except by consent, be under the control of the British War Office. Ulster counties may vote themselves out of the new constitution, with provision for taking a fresh vote after an interval of five years.

A good deal of uneasiness prevails in regard to the new war against Turkey. So far the Greek Army seems to have been successful in its operations round Smyrna, but its difficulties will grow greater as it advances into the interior, and, unless there should be a sudden collapse of the Turkish Nationalists, the Greeks may have to employ a much larger Army than the 90,000 at present at their disposal.

I am afraid that there is a good deal of foundation for the fears expressed by "Pertinax" in the Echo de Paris, to the effect that England will have to take a bigger hand in the conflict, or else suffer a serious loss of prestige. Unfortunately, our Army has been reduced to a point at which it is barely equal to the responsibilities already laid upon it. Hence, no doubt, the efforts that are being made to induce ex-soldiers to join the Army Reserve. But I am inclined to think that public opinion would be very much opposed to any large enrolment, either of men or money, for a war against the Turks.

"Pertinax" is, of course, chiefly thinking of French interests when he expresses anxiety lest England should become so immersed in Asiatic problems as to neglect European affairs. I do not think, however, that there is much danger on that score. The present temper of the working classes is very much against exotic enterprises of any sort, and Mr. Lloyd George, who keeps his finger on the electoral pulse, is not at all likely to risk losing their support if he can possibly avoid it.

The principal business fixed for this afternoon in the Commons was the Overseas Trade (Credits and Insurance) Bill, which, on its last appearance in the House, aroused the indignation of the Labour members and Independent Liberals. It was, perhaps, with the idea of again compelling a postponement of the measure that Captain Wedgwood Benn, Commander Kenworthy, Major Barnes, and Mr. Hogge, and a few others displayed the greatest possible interest in two apparently quite unimportant financial resolutions brought forward by the Irish Attorney-General for increasing the remuneration of resident magistrates, undersheriffs, and bailiffs.

In regard to the magistrates, Commander Kenworthy declared that the object of the resolution was to create a vested interest, so that the British taxpayer would for ever be burdened with the cost of the Irish magistracy. As to the bailiffs, his objection was that the Government were proposing a sweating wage. The ever-flowing streams of the hon. member's eloquence brought to his feet Mr. Seddon, who was interested in a resolution framed for the benefit of blind persons, and he accused Commander Kenworthy of deliberate obstruction. The hon. member for Hull, he declared, intervened more often, and created more ill-feeling, than anyone in the House, and, when he was replied to, he whined for a withdrawal without rhyme or reason. There were, he urged, members who had rights and privileges as well as Commander Kenworthy.

Mr. Henry got his resolution without much further talk, and the House then proceeded with a resolution authorising the provision of pensions to blind persons of over 50 years of age, who would, in the ordinary course of things, be entitled to the old age pension on attaining 70 years. The resolution had very little support from any side of the House, not from lack of sympathy with a class of persons it is desired to benefit, but because of the utter inadequacy of the provision to be made, and the humiliating conditions attached to the bestowal of the grant.

The Government was urged to withdraw the resolution, and bring in one which would show a more generous spirit, but Mr. Baldwin, on behalf of the Treasury, could hold out no hope in the present state of the national finances of any increased State aid. Colonel J. Ward said that the defeat of the resolution might afford the Government an excuse for doing nothing, but it was certainly surprising that Ministers should make their stand for economy on the one subject on which the country would cheerfully vote more money. Commander Kenworthy was closured at 5 o'clock, and, on a division, the resolution was carried by 110 to 18.

It would appear that Mr. Hoover, who some time ago was talked of as a possible Presidential candidate by both the great parties in the United States, has definitely come down on the Republican side, for his observations on America's duty towards Europe are addressed to the Republican Party. The withdrawal of the United States from the discussions on the Peace Treaties has enormously increased the difficulties of the Allies, notably in regard to the Turkish settlement. It is too much to hope that there will be a reversal of that attitude until the Presidential election has been decided. But there is, perhaps, a little more chance that Mr. Hoover's other suggestion may be adopted, and that the United States will take steps towards the improvement of European exchange. It is to the interest of their own manufacturers to do this, for otherwise it is certain that American export trade will begin to droop, owing to the exaggerated value of the dollar as compared with the sovereign, the franc, and the lira. A moratorium of five years, say, on the debts due by Europe to America would enable Great Britain to allow a similar accommodation to her Continental debtors, and greatly help the development of industry in all civilised countries.

Prince Arthur of Connaught will, it is said, be once again offered a Dukedom before he goes to South Africa. It is understood that he has already declined such an honour on three occasions, but may now be induced to accept it. As a matter of fact, it is not surprising that the Prince refuses Dukedoms, for they are already plentiful in his family. In the fulness of time he will become the Duke of Connaught, while his wife is Duchess of Fife in her own right, and it is, therefore, unlikely that the Prince would be anxious to merge either of these in a new title. If he does, his little son, Lord Mar, will in time inherit no fewer than three Dukedoms, and may be Duke of Connaught, Fife, and something else.

Apropos of the Prime Minister's remark in the House of Commons yesterday, in reply to Captain Wedgwood Benn, that the ex-Kaiser "is not safe yet," the Evening Standard says: "There is reason to believe that this country, France, and Italy, with the support of the United States, are now drafting a fresh Note to the Dutch Government insisting that the ex-Kaiser shall be surrendered to the Allies to stand his trial, the alternative being that Holland shall deport him from Europe to one of its possessions in the East Indies." This sounds like the revival of a story current some months ago.

THE "CURFEW" ORDER.

There were seventeen arrests in Dublin this morning under the "Curfew" Order.

GREEK OFFENSIVE.

TURKISH ARMY CORPS ANNIHILATED.

8,000 PRISONERS AND MUCH BOOTY.

The Greek Legation in London has received the following official communiqué from the Greek Army Headquarters at Smyrna, dated June 24, issued on the night of June 23:—

The 13th Division to-day opened an attack against Salihli and Mermerch Lake Pass. Our troops occupied Salihli to-day at 6.30 p.m. Mermerch Lake Pass was taken by assault. The regions of Mermerch and Salihli were cleared of all enemy forces. A column of our cavalry advanced at 5 p.m. in the direction of Kulah. We have taken a number of guns and prisoners.

A delayed telegram from Smyrna, which reached the Greek Legation on Thursday night, confirmed the occupation of Akhissar by Greek troops on June 22nd. The enemy is retreating in disorder, having suffered heavy losses.

The Greek Legation last night received an official communiqué from General Baraskegopolus, Commander-in-Chief of the Greek Army:—

The combined action of our troops against the enemy, in the region of Theodosia, was concluded yesterday night, by a great success. The Thirteenth Turkish Army Corps, defending Theodosia was completely annihilated, our cavalry having cut off their retreat. The enemy losses in killed, wounded, and prisoners were nearly 8,000. All the war material of the enemy forces, and large quantities of foodstuffs, locomotives, and rolling stock were captured. Our troops' advance line is now ten kilometres distant to the east of Philadelphia.

The Greek army, which has opened the offensive on the Smyrna front, is stated to have occupied the port of Smyrna and the Turkish Post Office buildings (says a Constantinople telegram).

MESOPOTAMIA.

STATEMENT BY LORD CURZON.

In the House of Lords yesterday,

Lord Islington, who had a number of questions on the paper relating to Mesopotamia, welcomed the telegram that was read by Mr. Montagu in the House of Commons, and criticised our expenditure in that country. He demanded to know what justification the Government had for setting up a super-Crown Colony system of administration needing a large army to support it at the expense of the British taxpayer. He contended that an Arab Government could have been set up directly after the armistice, at a saving of many millions. He objected to the policy of indiscriminate garrisoning by small units of remote and inaccessible parts of the East. We could no longer undertake to be rulers and protectors of the whole of that part of the world. Our existing administration there was dangerous to our prestige in the East.

Viscount Goschen said that he had a great belief in the future of Mesopotamia, if we could set up a lasting and stable Government, and provided that we retained the Vilayet of Mosul, which was a rich and fertile country, with oil and coal, and suited to agriculture on a large scale.

LORD CURZON.

Earl Curzon said that the charge had been made against the Government that a system of administration had been in operation in Mesopotamia which was described as indistinguishable from the Crown Colony system, and he would like to indicate the kind of conditions which our men had to face when they entered that country. The retreating Turks did everything they could to embarrass the Army of Occupation. There was no such thing as corporate national life. The advancing forces had to improvise administration as they went along. They had to build, in many parts, embankments to protect the towns, villages, roads, canals, and crops. Children had to be educated, the necessaries of life to be distributed, and hardly an Arab was capable of exercising executive authority. In this vacuum our men were compelled to set up some form of administration, and that form was set up to which they were habituated—a form very like Indian administration. The only thing to be said against it was that it was too efficient. He thought it very likely that they went too far. Although a good deal of disparagement had been thrown on the so-called Crown Colony administration in the interval, no one had paused to note the fact that every effort had been made to interest, consult, and galvanise into political activity the inhabitants of the country. It was very likely that experienced persons would be associated with Sir Percy Cox in drawing up a Constitution, and Arab opinion would be consulted at every opportunity. Of course, the new State could not be set up until the Peace Treaty with Turkey had been signed. With regard to Lord Islington's questions, there were 424 officials engaged in civil administration. The omens at present were not favourable to the raising of native military forces for the defence of the country. Endeavours were being made to raise native levies, but he was not sure that they would be successful. That ground would be explored thoroughly. Our troops in North-West Persia were sent there to keep the door shut on German agents. If we withdrew them now, the reaction might be a serious menace to Mesopotamia. There were still 15,000 prisoners and 27,000 refugees whom it had not been found possible to repatriate, and these needed four battalions of soldiers to look after them. There were 1,023 of all ranks of the Air Force in Mesopotamia. As to future administration, there was in the Government a general opinion that it was advisable to constitute some kind of special department for dealing with these mandated countries. If that were done, it would be a vital necessity to associate with it a new service, to provide men to administer these areas. It was impossible to prophecy as to the future. Mesopotamia was surrounded by a sea of ferment and anarchy, almost of chaos, and it was not only an obligation of duty and honour, but of expediency, that we should remain in the country at present. He hoped that we should get out of it before long, but it would be madness and a derogation of our honour if we left it. To throw up the sponge now would be an act of which they would all have every reason to be ashamed.

The Marquis of Crewe said that he feared that Earl Curzon's statement would not allay public apprehension as to the future course of events in Mesopotamia.

Viscount Milner said that he thought that the noble marquis took a too pessimistic view as to the possibilities of reduction of expenditure in Mesopotamia. The forces there were not much in excess of what we ought to keep until peace was signed, and peaceful conditions restored.

NIGHT OF CRIME IN BANTRY.

MAN SHOT IN HIS HOME.

A Bantry Correspondent telegraphed yesterday as follows:—Cornelius Crowley, a young man about 20 years of age, residing in Barrack road, Bantry, was shot dead in bed at his father's residence this morning, about two o'clock, by a party of disguised and armed men, who fired four shots into his chest and shoulders. He and his family are well-known Sinn Feiners.

About the same time the shop and dwelling-house of Mr. David O'Mahony, merchant, Barrack street, Bantry, was set on fire by petrol and bombs. It was completely burned. He is a leading Sinn Feiner in the town. The residences of Mr. Raphael Keyes, Mr. John Cotter, and Mr. John Lehane were broken into also last night by armed and disguised men, and the inhabitants threatened. Lehane's house was then set on fire and completely burned, while the other premises were very much wrecked.

An attempt was also made to set on fire Mr. Beggs' stores on the quay about the same time, but this did not succeed. A number of this gentleman's employés are active Sinn Feiners. It is also stated that a house at Glengarriff was burned.

Fear and terror prevailed in Bantry all day. A meeting of the local magistrates and prominent local people was called for four o'clock, with a view to try and avert any further outbreak. Further drafts of military arrived, and there are large numbers of policemen in the town, in charge of District Inspectors Regan and Oates. An effort is being made to get the police and military off the streets for the night, and the local Volunteers to patrol the town and keep civilians off. Great excitement prevails, and anything may happen.

Several local Sinn Feiners' and transport workers' houses were forced last night by armed and masked men, who demanded to see the proprietors, but they were not sleeping in their homes at the time.

NEW GERMAN MINISTRY.

According to an official statement, says a Berlin telegram, the German Cabinet has been formed as follows:—Imperial Chancellor, Dr. Fehrenbach; Minister of Justice and Vice-Chancellor, Herr Heinze; Foreign Minister, Dr. Simons; Minister of Interior, Herr Koch; Finance, Herr Wirth; Food, Herr Hermes; Posts, Herr Giesberts; Transport, General Groener; Defence, Herr Gessler; Economics, Herr Scholz; Treasury, Provincial Councillor von Raumer. The Ministries of Reconstruction and Labour have not yet been filled.

Sir Thomas MacKenzie, K.C.M.G., High Commissioner in London for New Zealand, has been promoted to be G.C.M.G.

PEACE EFFORTS IN DERRY.

A WEEK OF TERROR.

CITIZENS' COMMITTEE FORMED.

UNDER-SECRETARIES PRESENT.

SOME SHOPS REOPENED.

STILL SNIPING IN WATERSIDE DISTRICT.

CITY ON THE VERGE OF FAMINE.

Serious efforts to bring peace to the City of Derry after its week of terror were begun yesterday. Meetings of magistrates and leading citizens of all parties were held, and the best means of restoring order were discussed.

The inadequacy of the protection afforded by the Government was severely criticised, and some speakers said that they had lost all faith in Dublin Castle.

The day passed quietly, and, with the exception of some sniping in the Waterside district, there was no trouble. Many citizens ventured into the streets for the first time for a week.

The food situation in some quarters had reached an acute state, and was only relieved when farmers from the surrounding districts ventured into the city with foodstuffs of various kinds.

The following communication was received by the Irish Office (London) yesterday:—

"The situation in Derry is much better, but business is at a stand-still. There is still some sniping."

Our Special Correspondent in Derry telegraphed last night:—The situation here to-day is a little easier, and, as the result of a conference in the evening, the feeling is entertained among law-abiding citizens of all creeds that law and order should soon be restored. In the morning a meeting of the city magistrates was held, which was attended by Mr. James MacMahon and Sir John Anderson. Some strong expressions were used at the inaction of the Government in dealing with the disturbances more promptly, and Mr. MacMahon assured those present that the Government would assist the military in every possible way.

MAGISTRATES' MEETINGS

Mr. James MacMahon and Sir John Anderson, joint Under Secretaries for Ireland, travelled by the morning train from Dublin, and arrived here at 11.45 o'clock. They were accompanied by Mr. W. E. Wylie, K.C., Law Adviser for the Crown, and they were met at the Great Northern Station by Brigadier-General Carter-Campbell, D.S.O., the competent military authority for Ulster, who has been here for the past few days. The party proceeded to the Courthouse, where a meeting of the city magistrates was held under the presidency of Mr. J. R. Hastings, D.L.

The Chairman fully outlined the condition of affairs in the city, and complained bitterly about the inaction of the Government in response to their repeated appeals for military assistance. The military and police in the city were, he pointed out, completely inadequate in numbers to deal effectively with the situation, with the result that a large number of innocent people had been murdered and a larger number wounded. What they wanted was an assurance that troops sufficient to handle the situation would at once be sent to the city. Had sufficient troops been despatched when the magistrates first asked for them, numerous lives would have been saved, and the city would have been spared the present dreadful sufferings. They wanted troops to ensure that men and munitions should not be brought into the city, and that they would take control and bring the business of the city to its normal condition.

Mr. F. Gilliland, Chairman of the Chamber of Commerce, said they had lost all faith in authority in Dublin. The Government had not even acknowledged their telegrams appealing for assistance. He expressed disapproval of the flouting of the opinion of city representatives by the people in Dublin Castle. There was a strong feeling that the Government were allowing things to drift along, to what end they could not surmise, and the people of the city had no faith in what Dublin Castle would do.

Mr. James MacMahon, Under Secretary, assured the meeting that the Government would give the competent military authority all the troops necessary to deal with the situation. A peace based on force, he said, would not be lasting, and he thought the representative citizens on both sides should come together and arrive at a mutual understanding. He paid a warm tribute to the good work done by the clergymen on both sides, and especially the Roman Catholic priests.

The Chairman agreed, and said that it could not be expected that the Catholic priests could do more than they had done.

Several present expressed regret that the Mayor of the city and the Town Clerk were in London on official business.

In the evening a further meeting of the magistrates was held, and, having consulted for a few minutes privately, they were joined by prominent citizens, a conference being held to consider the best means to adopt to bring about peace. Sir John Anderson and Mr. Wylie, K.C.; Right Rev. Dr. Peacocke, Rev. Dr. McGranaghan, as well as Unionist and Nationalist citizens, were present.

Mr. John R. Hastings, D.L., presided, and a Conciliation Committee of representative citizens, consisting of the following, was formed:—Aldermen Cathal Bradley, Richard Doherty, Councillors S. W. Kennedy and C. McKay (representing the Corporation), Messrs. Frank Gililand, J. C. Glendinning, J. McDevitt, and Dan Leonard (representing the Chamber of Commerce); Messrs. T. F. Cook, D.L.; Robert Watson, J.P.; Charles O'Neill, D.L., and J. J. Madden (representing the Harbour Board); Right Rev. Dr. Peacocke, Bishop of the diocese; Rev. Dr. McGrenaghan, ex-Moderator of the General Assembly, Presbyterian Church; Rev. W. B. MacFeely, B.D., P.P.; Rev. A. L. Hegarty, Adm. (representing the clergy); and Captain J. M. Wilton, J.P.; Alderman Meenan, Councillor Dan O'Donnell, and Alfred Moore Munn, Clerk of the Crown and Peace (representing the citizens); with Messrs. William Phillips, Assistant Town Clerk, and Harry E. Scott Petty Sessions Clerk, as secretaries.

The Committee will meet the leaders of the various societies of the men now on strike to-morrow with a view to the resumption of work and the restoration of order.

Sir John Anderson, in a statement, expressed pleasure at such a representative Committee being appointed, and assured those present that he would do everything in his power to assist the citizens in restoring order.

ANOTHER MAN KILLED.

This morning it was reported that a man named Austin, who resided in Cross street, had been shot dead last night at the Waterside. Austin was crossing Union street at the time he was fired at, the bullet passing through the heart, and causing instantaneous death. It is stated that he was an ex-soldier, and had been employed as a bootmaker.

At the time of telegraphing, the city is comparatively quiet. It has, since the operations commenced, been the freest day yet experienced from revolver and rifle fire. Accounts, of course, continue to be circulated as to occasional sniping and conflicts between opposing factions, but on enquiry it is found that they are without foundation.

There was, undoubtedly, greater freedom of movement displayed in the city to-day, and people walked about in considerable numbers, at the same time confining their perambulations to thoroughfares outside the zone where the activities of the two sections have been greatest.

MORE TROOPS ARRIVE.

A further company of the Norfolk Regiment arrived to-day, but the number of troops is not yet of sufficient strength to enable the authorities to guard the protected areas with absolute safety. The soldiers have had a busy time, many being on duty for hours continuously. More troops are expected, and it is confidently hoped that complete control will soon be exercised by the military.

It was officially announced this afternoon that Colonel J. G. Chaplin, D.S.O., of the Cameronians, has assumed command of the troops in the city, and he has been vested with all the powers of Competent Military Authority.

FOOD SITUATION.

The food supplies of the city are far from satisfactory, and the lot of those residing in the disturbed area has been extremely hard. They have been unable to leave their homes, but are bearing up under the circumstances with great fortitude. It is stated that the supply of provisions in the jail became so scarce that the military were requisitioned to scour the country to secure foodstuffs, and, being successful in their search, were able to relieve the situation in the jail.

It was a pleasing thing to see a great many shops open to-day for the first time, and there was a great rush to purchase necessary commodities.

It was learned this evening that the loyalists in the country districts have brought in butter, eggs, and milk to their co-religionists in the affected areas, and appreciation of the farmers kindness is very keen. Looting, which had gone on to a considerable extent during the last two days, had virtually ceased to-day. Volunteers on both sides are exercising themselves in this connection, and the action of those men in endeavouring to protect property is regarded as a hopeful sign.

UNION JACKS DISPLAYED.

In a late message last night our Correspondent telegraphs:—

There is a great display of Union Jacks at Fountain Hill and along Carlisle Bridge. This is a notable Unionist stronghold. It is stated that some men were chased by Unionists in the locality, it being alleged that they refused to salute the Union Jack when requested to do so. One of them, rather than be caught, jumped over the bridge into the river, from which he was rescued by some of his friends.

Any shooting that there has been to-day has been confined to the Waterside district. It appears that at midday opposing sections, but of few numbers, got into conflict, and there was some firing, which brought the military to the scene. The parties were dispersed at the point of the bayonet. Sniping continues at intervals in this particular district, but there has been no report of any casualties. In some parts soldiers stopped pedestrians and carried out a search for arms. The soldiers occupy the upper portion of the tower at Tower Bridge, with the object of keeping a sharp look-out for snipers. No arrests of any of these snipers are reported.

BARRICADES REMOVED.

There are no postal deliveries yet, and people have been attending the post office here in large numbers, queues being formed, and letters and telegrams handed out to them.

The barricades in Bishop street were being removed to-day, but the obstacles in other thoroughfares still remain, and soldiers are in charge of them.

A Unionist living in William street received a notice warning him to leave his premises, and he was departing with his friends when Sinn Fein Volunteers appeared on the scene, and insisted on his remaining in his house, at the same time placing a guard over it.

An interesting incident this morning was the attendance of unemployed men at the Labour Exchange at Newtown place for the purpose of drawing unemployment money. The greater proportion of these men are ex-soldiers, and some of them, it is stated, took part in the fighting during the last few days.

To-night everything is quiet, and not a shot has been fired for some time. It is hoped that wiser counsels will soon prevail. The wonder is where all the ammunition that has been expended has come from, and some people say that the stocks on both sides are now almost exhausted.

Colonel Chaplin, who has been appointed Competent Military Authority, is in town, and was present at the magistrates' meeting this morning. General Carter-Campbell remains here until to-morrow.

FUNERAL OF A VICTIM.

The funeral of Patrick Mallett, of 14 Deanery street, took place to-day. This was the first funeral of any of the victims of the fighting. The remains were removed from the Infirmary to the city cemetery, and were followed by about 1,500 Volunteers. Three other funerals will take place to-morrow.

NQUESTS OPENED.

Inquests were opened this forenoon in the Courthouse by Mr. John P. Thompson, Deputy Coroner, on the bodies of Mrs. Margaret Mills, P. J. Plunkett, George Caldwell, Robert McLaughlin, and Augustus Austin.

The Coroner said that he was not going to ask the jury to view the bodies, which was an unusual thing, and he took the responsibility for doing so. He did not think it would be fair to ask members of the jury at the present time to go through all parts of the city, and perhaps be sniped. Further, he did not think it was necessary. He thought that it would be sufficient to have evidence of identification in presence of the doctors. He would only take formal evidence, and would have to ask them to attend later on. It was a big thing to ask them, but they understood the position he was in.

A police constable, in reply to the Coroner, said that Augustus Austin formerly lived at Cross street, but he had to flee from there.

In the case of Mrs. Mills, Alexander Mills, the husband of the deceased, said that he had seen the body and pointed it out to Dr. Crosbie at 8 Orchard row.

Dr. Crosbie stated that he had examined the body identified by the last witness.

The Coroner said that he desired to give all parties as much latitude as possible to investigate the cases and bring forward their witnesses. On behalf of himself and the jurors he expressed sympathy with Mr. Mills and the relatives of the other deceased. It seemed to him, from the investigations he had made, that it was the innocent to a great extent that were suffering. His heartfelt sympathy went out to the relatives of all parties and he deplored the state their city was in. He trusted in God that a better feeling would come into the hearts and minds of the people, and that before they again met at the adjourned inquest the city would be settled down.

After formal evidence had been given in the case of Mr. Patrick J. Plunkett, Mrs. Austin gave evidence of identification of her husband.

The Coroner having expressed sympathy with her, said that he would give her every opportunity to bring forward every witness she possibly could to identify the hand that shot her husband, because he looked upon all the cases as nothing more than wilful murder.

Mr. Wylie, K.C., who appeared for the authorities, said that in the first place he wished to say how deeply he regretted and deplored the terrible outbreak of disorder that had occurred in that famous city, of which all the citizens of every class and creed were so justly proud. Secondly, might he ask the jury in considering the circumstances of each case and the verdict that they should arrive at, to remember that the law could not look at motives? Murder was murder, crime was crime, no matter with what political or religious purpose it might be committed. So long as any established law existed, the first primary rule of that law was that human life was sacred. It was the first law of God and of man—thou shalt not kill. Unless the established law decided that human life was to be forfeited, there could be no excuse for the taking of it. A judge and jury could impose the death sentence, but no individual, and, therefore, any man or body of men who took arms in their hands and shot down their neighbours were in the eyes of the law blood-guilty. He did not speak for any one political association or body of men. He spoke generally, and he told them that, no matter what man's political or religious views might be, be he Catholic or Protestant, Jew or Gentile, Nationalist, Unionist, or Republican, if he took up arms and slew, he was guilty of murder. If that was not recognised, then chaos reigned supreme. If the law was not obeyed, instead of an orderly community they lived amidst barbarism, and they stood on the brink of hell, which no words could paint. The law could and would not recognise politics or political motives, nor would a man's creed protect him if he broke this just, great commandment. He did not know what their political or religious views might be, nor did he care. They in that court were emissaries of the law. He was an emissary of the law, and he said there in Derry, as he had said without ceasing in other parts of Ireland, that a fair and impartial administration of the criminal law was the first safeguard of any civilised State. It was for the people of Ireland to recognise that, and to say that killing was murder, no matter what the motive was of the perpetrator. He asked them to enter on that inquiry with the intent as citizens to uphold the law, forgetting politics and all else that might obstruct their clear views of the issue.

The Deputy Coroner said that Mr. Wylie's statement on behalf of the Government would give strength and encouragement to the law-abiding people. He assured Mr. Wylie that the citizens were not in sympathy with outrage and disorder. A jury of Derry men could be depended on to do its duty always fearlessly. He hoped that better times were ahead.

Mr. Wylie—I hope so.

The inquests were adjourned until the 6th July.

In the evening inquests on Patrick Mallet and John McKinney were opened in the Infirmary, and were also adjourned after evidence of identification had been given.

ULSTER UNIONIST COUNCIL AND DERRY.

At a largely-attended meeting of the Standing Committee of the Ulster Unionist Council, held in the Old Town Hall, Belfast, yesterday, the following resolution was unanimously passed:—

"That, owing to the failure of the Government to protect the lives and property of the loyal inhabitants of Ulster, this meeting of the Standing Committee of the Ulster Unionist Council call upon the Government to do so without further delay by means of the forces of the Crown, failing which to utilise and recognise the services of the loyalists of Ulster to assist in preserving law and order in the province, and that this meeting stand adjourned, pending an early reply from the Government."

Copies of this resolution were sent to the Prime Minister, Sir Edward Carson, and the Ulster Unionist members of Parliament.

MILITARY ACTIVITY IN DUBLIN.

During the "Curfew" hours yesterday morning a party of soldiers visited the licensed premises of Mr. Philip Shanahan, M.P., Foley street, Dublin, and also the Republican Drapery Stores and the Globe Hotel in Talbot street. The three houses were searched, and in the hotel two young men were taken into custody. They were taken to the Bridewell, and were subsequently removed to Dublin Castle.

THE MUNITIONS CRISIS.

DUBLIN SITUATION UNALTERED.

INCREASING DISLOCATION OF TRAIN SERVICES.

There was no fresh development yesterday in the strike situation at the North Wall, the activity of the strike pickets being pretty much as usual. At the offices of the Irish Labour Party and Trade Union Congress subscriptions for the strike fund were received amounting to over £400. The passenger steamer services to and from the North Wall proceeded without interruption, and there were no fresh arrivals of troops at the port. In connection with the incident which led to the holding-up of the Dublin and Blessington Tramway system on Thursday, it is understood that the soldiers whom the tramway employes refused to carry were on their way to Kilbride Camp, some 15 miles from the city. After some hours' delay at the Terenure terminus the soldiers proceeded to their desination by road, their equipment being taken after them in military conveyances. The Blessington tramway system was working, as usual, yesterday.

THE RAILWAY SERVICES.

The dislocation of the railway services, particularly on the G.S. and W.R. system, was the most important development of the day. All the trains on this system left Dublin up to the schedule time during the day, but the news from the provinces indicated that at various centres—and particularly at Limerick—the train services were dislocated to a greater or lesser degree. The up day mail train from Cork had to be cancelled owing to lack of men to work it, but efforts were being made to forward the mails and passengers by a later train. The train from Waterford for Cork was held up at Lismore, as was also the train from Mallow to Waterford. There was no passenger train service in any direction out of Limerick yesterday, the result being that the West of Ireland and Sligo services have been closed as well as the North Kerry and Tralee branch. This morning the mail train will run as usual from Dublin to Cork and Waterford, but not beyond Roscrea and Birr in the Limerick direction. It is hoped that the Kerry line from Mallow to Tralee will be open, but the railway officials were not sure yesterday what may happen with regard to the line from Mallow to Waterford, or from Thurles to Limerick Junction and Waterford. The Tullow, Kilkenny, and Athlone lines are open. The goods train service generally on the G.S. and W.R. system continues without interruption, but traffic to aid from England is greatly restricted.

The special train which left Cork at 4.30 p.m. with mails and passengers, in substitution for the 8.35 night mail, arrived at Kingstown at 10.30 last night. To-day the ordinary mail for Dublin will leave Limerick Junction instead of Cork.

A conference of the Irish Resident Committee, attended by representatives of railwaymen from the principal centres affected by the crisis, including Limerick, Cork, Tipperary, and Waterford, together with Dublin members of the National Executive, was held in Dublin yesterday, when the whole question leading up to the dispute was considered. After four hours' deliberation decisions were made, which will be communicated to railwaymen throughout the country.

THE SITUATION AT CORK.

The railway situation in Cork is gradually becoming worse. There was yesterday no connection between Cork and either Limerick or Waterford, and the mails for those districts are held up at Mallow. The list of dismissals for refusing to work was further added to yesterday at Cork, Mallow, and Limerick. The service to Kerry is still confined to two trains each way. The 2.45 day mail from Cork yesterday did not run.

The 5.30 p.m. goods train from Youghal to Cork was held up at Youghal yesterday evening, the guard having refused to run it. It is said that he was a temporary man sent to replace another retained at Cork for certain work.

NO TRAINS LEAVING LIMERICK.

The railway dispute in Limerick showed no change yesterday, and passengers from the city to any destination had no facilities provided to travel by rail. A notice to that effect was posted in the early forenoon. Two trains, however, arrived, one from Sligo and a goods train conveying some mails. The party of armed Constabulary, who were refused conveyance on Monday, were again on the station platform yesterday, apparently ready to renew their demand if the occasion arose.

TRAIN STOPPED AT CARRICK-ON-SUIR.

When six policemen who were conveying a man to Waterford Jail entered a train at Carrick-on-Suir yesterday morning the driver and guard refused to carry them. The engine and a van containing parcels went on to Waterford, but the carriage containing the police and the prisoner was left in the station siding. The police by instructions remained in the carriage all day, and stated that they will remain in it for the week-end. The prisoner whom they were escorting was returned for trial to the Quarter Sessions on a charge of stealing copper piping value £15 from the Carrick-on-Suir Brewery.

DUBLIN FOOD SUPPLIES.

A special meeting of the Municipal Council of the City of Dublin will be held on Monday next at one o'clock to consider the situation that may arise in the event of a railway stoppage, which would greatly affect the food supplies of the city.

ULSTER RAILWAYMEN AND MUNITIONS.

A meeting of the traffic and locomotive departments of the Midland Railway was held at Belfast yesterday evening, when the following resolution was unanimously adopted:—"The men in these departments wish to express their disapproval of the action of certain Irish railwaymen who have refused to handle and convey Government munitions and troops in this country. They desire to make it known that, as loyal men, they may be relied upon to carry out faithfully any duties that may be assigned to them, and they will have no truck with assassins and murderers."

PLIGHT OF IRISH EMIGRANTS.

Queenstown had incontestable evidence yesterday of the inconvenience caused to the travelling public by the dislocation, if not the practical suspension of the railway services operated by the Great Southern and Western Railway Company on the lines which connect from he Counties of Sligo, Galway, Mayo, Limerick, Clare, and parts of the Counties of Kerry, Tipperary, Cork, and Waterford with the main line of the Great Southern Company from Dublin to Queenstown. During the day between 15 and 20 motor cars reached Queenstown from most of the above-named counties with passengers booked to embark on the White Star liner Mobile which sails from Queenstown to-day for New York. Many of these emigrants were travelling for most of the previous night in order to reach Queenstown yesterday. Intending emigrants also came from Ennis, Killaloe, Newcastle West, and County Kerry by motor in order to get their passports vised at the American Consulate, and returned home by motor cars at night to await the date of sailing. At the Great Southern Railway Station, Queenstown, owing to the present railway trouble, it is not possible to book for quite a number of places, especially for those off the main line. There is even a grave danger that traffic on the main line between Queenstown and Dublin will partly, if not wholly, be suspended to-day, as the mail train from Queenstown, which left at 2.15 p.m. yesterday to connect with the Kingstown and Holyhead mail boat and the London and North-Western train to Euston was held up at Cork, and had not left there up to a late hour, although it contained many passengers en route to London.

The Waterford police yesterday morning discovered the golf pavilion burned down on the local links. A considerable amount of the property of the members has been destroyed.

A number of arrests were made by the police and military at Kilmore and Drumsna on Thursday night in connection with the holding up of a military officer and his soldier chauffeur on Wednesday last. All of the men were discharged except one, who remains in custody.

Yesterday morning the mail car from Dundalk to Shercock was held up at Summerhill, and the driver, Edward Coyle, and a post office official named Montgomery, from Dundalk, who had been travelling as a passenger, were tied to a gate after having been blindfolded. The motor was dismantled, and the letters conveyed to a spot one hundred yards off, where the bags were searched, and all official correspondence carried off. The armed men then went off leaving the two men tied to the gate.

At the meeting of the Cork Corporation last night, arising out of a discussion on collecting funds for dismissed railwaymen, the Lord Mayor said that some people might think that they were subject to the decrees of the English Government, but he would tell them that they were not, but that they were subject to the decrees of the Irish Republic.

The birth of Free Trade was commemorated at Birmingham yesterday by a series of celebrations, the principal of which was the placing of wreaths on the Peel Statue. Speaking at a luncheon, Lord Beauchamp complained that the Tariff Reformers, having been beaten in a frontal attack, were making flank attacks upon Free Trade from their entrenchments in public departments. Mr. Walter Runciman claimed that the test of war had proved on every count that we were the stronger nation because of Free Trade.

SPECIAL EXTRA.

THE DEMOCRATS AND IRELAND.

In a message, dated Friday, Reuter's San Francisco Correspondent says:—Representatives of the "Friends of Irish Freedom," who intended to urge a plank in the Democratic platform pertaining to Ireland, have announced that, owing to the activities of Irish sympathisers under the guidance of Mr. de Valera, they do not now intend to propose any declaration to the Resolutions Committee of the Convention. The announcement is generally regarded as aggravating the possibility of a determined fight over the Irish question. It is stated that the officials of the "Friends of Irish Freedom" had privately advocated a plank considered less pronounced than that proposed by Mr. de Valera. The Democratic leaders, while unwilling to predict as to the wording and substance, say that they believe that an Irish plank will be incorporated in the Democratic platform. They refuse to listen to any suggestion that Irish-Americans are opposed to the League of Nations.

LORD DUNRAVEN AND EX-SERVICE MEN'S OFFER.

Lord Dunraven, writing to The Times with regard to the offer made by the Ulster ex-Service men's Association to place 3,000 trained officers and men at the service of the Government in order to restore law and order, earnestly prays His Majesty's Government not to consider any such offer carefully or otherwise. He adds that its acceptance would inevitably lead to reprisals. At Messines Ridge, to mention but one instance, Irishmen from North and South fought heroically side by side, and Willie Redmond, a Nationalist M.P., gave his life. Who but a criminal lunatic would make these men to cut each other's throats and set Ireland in a blaze.

DOCTORS' SECRETS.

INTERESTING DISCUSSION AT MEDICAL ASSOCIATION.

At the meeting of the British Medical Association at Cambridge yesterday, Dr. Langham Down, Wick, raised the question as to whether a medical man should disclose professional secrets, and moved that, having considered the question of professional secrecy, more particularly with regard to venereal disease, the Representative Body reiterates the opinion that a medical practitioner should not, under any circumstances, disclose voluntarily, without the patient's consent, information which he has obtained from that patient in the exercise of his professional duties.

Dr. Down contended that the medical profession should not shift the position they had always taken up on this matter—namely, that secrecy should be maintained. There are cases, he said, in which you received from a court of law an order to divulge your professional confidence. There are also cases in which the professional man will defy the order of the court, and take the consequences. If that is done in a sound case the punishment should not, and will not, be unduly severe. There are also cases when you may feel it your duty to divulge a secret received in a professional way, in order to prevent the commission of crime. The question is, shall we weaken our rule by satisfying those exceptions? We believe if you begin to open the door you take away the great anchor upon which our professional work is based. If you have a breach of confidence between the doctor and the public you will do untold damage. We shall do well to adhere to our old rule of secrecy.

Dr. Sheahan, Portsmouth, proposed, as an amendment, that the representative body express the opinion that the medical profession should be placed on the same footing as to professional secrecy as clergy, barristers, and solicitors, and that the Association take every means to bring this about. What I contend is, declared Dr. Sheahan, that a medical man shall not disclose any evidence under any circumstances without the consent of the patient. (Cheers.)

The solicitor of the Association, by request of members, stated the legal position. He said that, so far as the legal profession was concerned, secrecy was not recognised by the law under Act of Parliament. So far as secrecy in the Church was concerned, it was on sentimental, and not on legal, grounds. It appears to me that we should be aiming at almost the impossible in endeavouring to get an Act of Parliament to establish it. If a medical man knew that secrecy was going to make a crime, you would be justified telling. (Hear, hear, and a voice—"No.")

Dr. J. A. MacDonald, Taunton, proposed, as an amendment to the resolution, that a medical man should not, without the patient's consent, disclose information unless compelled to do so by a court of law.

Sir J. Jenner Verrall, Bath, in seconding, said that if a patient objected to the disclosure, the practitioner should not disclose.

Several of the delegates objected to the amendment on the ground that it almost invited those in authority to take some means of getting a legal decision, which probably would not be in favour of the doctor's plea for secrecy. Their view was that no information should be given by the doctor without the patient's consent, and it should be left at that.

The amendment of Dr. MacDonald was defeated.

Dr. David Drummond, of Royal Victoria Infirmary, Newcastle-on-Tyne, was elected President for 1921-22. Next year's Conference will be held at Newcastle.

MAIL TRAINS ROBBED.

OFFICIAL CORRESPONDENCE SEIZED.

A daring "hold up" of the mail train from Sligo to Dublin took place on Thursday evening at Kilfree Junction at 8 p.m., when eight armed masked men boarded the train. They told the passengers not to be afraid, and then proceeded to the guard's van and demanded the mail bags, from which they took, it is said, official documents for the Lord Lieutenant, who was then at his Drumdoe residence, as well as communications for Dublin Castle. The search occupied about half an hour, after which the train proceeded on its journey.

About 5.30 yesterday morning the mail train from Belfast to Cavan was held up at Ballyhaise Junction, four miles from Cavan, by armed men, who took possession of the mail bags, which they opened on the platform. All letters for the police and military were taken. The others were left lying about, and were subsequently removed to Cavan by a motor car sent by the postal authorities.

FEIS CEOIL ASSOCIATION.

The Committee met yesterday, Mr. Edmond Lupton, K.C., in the chair. Also present:—Miss Pauline Elsner, Miss Alice B. Griffith, Mr. T. F. S. Battersby, K.C.; Professor Stewart Macalister, Rev. Professor George O'Neill, and the Registrar. Five compositions were received for the Composers' Competition from "Deirdre," "Rover," "Nemo," "Pelagius," and "X." The Adjudicator, Mr. Hamilton Harty, reports:—"I can recommend 'An Irish Elegy,' for voice and pianoforte, by 'Nemo,' for the prize in Class IV. It is simple and musicianly. Of the other compositions sent in, the best is a Fantasia for pianoforte by 'Pelagius,' but, though evidently the work of a careful musician, the general level of interest is not sufficient to justify a prize being awarded." On the envelope marked "Nemo" being opened it was found that the winner of the prize is the Rev. W. H. C. Walford Turl, M.A., B.D., The Rectory, Kilglass, Ballina, Co. Mayo. It was decided to hold the Feis Ceoil of 1921 in Dublin.

LEGAL ASSISTANTS' ASSOCIATION.

A meeting of this Association was held in the Molesworth Hall, Molesworth street, Dublin, on Thursday evening, when a very large number of members was in attendance. It was unanimously agreed that Mr. Brown should take the chair, and he explained to the members the efforts which had been made by the Committee on their behalf, and the objects for which the Association had been established, one of which included the recognition of the Association by the Incorporated Law Society, which had met with their approval. A Committee and officers of the Association were duly elected, and the nomination of the members on the Conciliation Board, which is to be held at an early date, was duly confirmed. The proceedings concluded with a vote of thanks to the Chairman and to the Hon. Secs. of the Association.

SHELBOURNE FAIR.

Starting on next Tuesday, Shelbourne Park will be the home of mirth and fun, music and laughter. Besides the ordinary amusements of dancing, roulette playing, riding on the merry-go-rounds, etc., the children are especially catered for in amusements suitable to their age. There will be special competitions for Irish dancing, at which very valuable prizes can be won. On the evening of the 29th and the afternoon of the next day there will be a staging of "Alice in Wonderland." There is no need to go into the details of the countless other amusements. There will be Whippet Racing, a Floral Parade of Motor Cars, and a Children's Pony Show.

THOUGHTS AND THEORIES.

HERESIES ON WAR.

THE ROSE IN HISTORY.

A SONG OF ARABY.

(BY C. H. B.)

WAR THE BENEFACTOR.

When, in the course of the great war, I became a shopwalker in ordinary to His Majesty there was in our mess a young officer who had a mania for posing as a financial expert. He was fat, pompous, and Prussian in demeanour. He had a mania for reading minutes of the meeting and for bookkeeping by double entry. If a committee was formed for any purpose—to get up a dance for the men or a new piano for the canteen or to present the colonel's new baby with a christening mug—X. was always treasurer. All he asked was to be allowed to keep the accounts. He always opened what he called a "set of books," which the King's Regulations seemed to require his disgusted brother officers to audit. The whole art and secret of bookkeeping by double entry, I should explain, is that you put every item down four times. If they add up differently at the end of the quarter, as is almost bound to be the case, the difference is carried over into another book, subtracted from itself, and the result is written down on the top of the right-hand page and at the bottom of the left hand page, the two being connected by a diagonal red line. The examining officer writes "Make it so" underneath, and the Colonel signs it.

X. was normally of a slothful and gloomy temperament—"You can't beat the Germans, my boy," he would say, "they're too efficient"—but in committee he assumed superior proportions. Some important question—say, the purchase of a box of dominoes for the officers' mess would be under discussion. X. would assume an air of portentous gravity—precisely the look that managing directors use when they are trying to reconcile a proposal to increase the directors' emoluments with a purely temporary inability to declare a dividend—and say, "The worst of you fellows who don't understand finance, etc." When, at dinner, the latest war loan would come up for discussion he would say, "Of course, one must buy a few hundreds and all that; but, speaking as a banker, I simply can't approve of it. It isn't sound." Personally, being a simple soul, I never doubted that X. was the power behind the London, City, and Midland Bank or Messrs. Coutts and Co., for when he went on week-end leave, which was whenever there was a week-end, he always hinted darkly of important engagements in the City. So impressed was I that I am quite sure that, if it had not been for X.'s forbidding manner, I should have attempted to negotiate a small loan from the financial octopus which he represented.

My fellow-officers, however, who included a stockjobber, a Jewish theatrical manager, and a bank cashier, were less credulous, and decided to find out by the exercise of stealth exactly what X.'s profession was. The bank cashier's batman, who claimed to be a private investigator in civil life, was given three days' leave and promised a case of beer if he would furnish the necessary information. At the end of the three days he returned triumphant to inform us that X. was publicity writer for a firm that dealt exclusively in high-class ladies' underwear—ladies' high-class underwear is, perhaps, more correct. When, shortly after this event, I was translated to other spheres of uselessness, X. was still carrying the entire financial responsibilities of the camp on his shoulders; but his nickname had been changed to "Undies."

I find that this tendency to pose as a possessor of the money-sense and as one who is aware of finance is rather common among men, prone in general to harmless vanities of one sort or another. The actual fact is that the world is divided into two classes—the snatchers and the snatched from—and that eighty per cent. of sentient beings, including yours obediently, belong to the latter class. Particularly is this so in the case of what is called national finance. Ten years ago portentous statesmen would arise in the House of Commons—people took it seriously in those days—and gravely inform the nation, about half of which never averaged a square meal a day, that it must practise thrift. The nation responded cordially. It skimped the Services, neglected education, ignored national hygiene, sold Heligoland, hired cheap German clerks, and did a lot of other quite thrifty things. Quite two hundred million pounds must have been saved by these means in the last twenty years or so. True, the late war cost about three thousand millions more than it would have done if we had not been quite so thrifty; but then who ever thought there was going to be another war, with the sacred principles of Liberalism—the Paisley Policy—so well to the fore?

The lesson of the war was that, nationally speaking, there is always more where the last lot came from, that the only really costly proceeding was not to have the right amount of stuff—food, munitions, men, or whatever it might be—at the right place at the right time and in the right quantity. Yet the moment the war began to look as if it were over the amateur financiers of the popularity Press began to yell for the immediate cancellation of what they called our "commitments" here, there, and everywhere. A pliant Government, more anxious about their own immediate success than the future prosperity of the nation, responded handsomely. The result is that what are somewhat pompously known as the fruits of victory are for the most part still clinging adhesively to the parent bough. I believe that for the time being Togoland and the Caroline Islands are fairly within the Allies' grasp. In Mesopotamia, the Dardanelles, County Kerry, the Hotel Adlon—not to mention the Caucasus, Persia, Afghanistan, and Lympne—however, we are retiring according to plan. We are bribing Greece to re-win the war against Turkey, and we have tried without success to persuade the United States to re-win the freedom of Armenia. And all for why? as the natives say. In the sacred name of thrift, to be sure.

But you have no need to study the financial columns of the Press or speeches in Parliament to realise that there is something wrong with the public conception of what finance means. Ten years ago, when the nation was rigidly practising thrift in the manner I have described, a walk down any London street where the poorer classes abound meant an uninterrupted vista of threadbare clothes, sad and hungry faces, and faces with that slightly pinched and pallid look that London's over-worked and under-nourished proletariat habitually displayed. The Englishman was said to take his pleasures sadly. No wonder, when he had to work so hard for them and was able to please himself so seldom. But what a change the hideous and ruinous war has wrought! The other day I happened to be in London, and circumstances took me to the Edgware road. How different it looked from the old threadbare, hungry days! Everybody was well dressed. Everybody looked well fed; and everybody was laughing—not the old desperate mirth of the submerged, but real laughter that betokens physical and mental well being.

Then I asked myself: "How dare those people laugh like that? How dare they wear those expensive clothes and come out of chocolate shops? Do they not know that the nation is groaning under an unutterable burden of debt? Do they not know that the cost of living has risen to such an extent that they are really worse off than they were before the war?" It

[q]uite clear that they did not know it, or if they did, it made no difference to them. Suppose we are living on credit, they would probably say, "what's the use of credit if you don't live on it?" And how can one help agreeing with them? And what is the good of prating about the horrors of war when the war has given full bellies and well-clothed backs to half the nation that, but for the war, would never have known either? I would have you observe that I do not dogmatise on this point. I merely insist that there is a fallacy somewhere. Finance is a matter of figures and paper; but a suit of clothes is a suit of clothes, and the catastrophe that makes one grow in a place where it never grew before—even if the price has gone up three hundred per cent.—wants some looking into.

ROSES.

June is the month of brides and roses. Among the American Indians, who called every month after some plant, it was known as the month of strawberries. In the marriage feast of Hiawatha, Chibiabos, the sweetest of all singers, compares the heart of Hiawatha to the "sighing, singing branches in the pleasant Moon of Strawberries." Brides do not mean a lot to me, I must confess, but roses are another matter. There was a time, too, when I exhibited a distinct flair for what Applejohn, my one-time Chinese fruiterer, used to call "stawbellies"; but the day is forever gone when the barrowmen would sell you big, fat red ones for twopence a pound. Nowadays they are two bob a pound in the height of the season and cream is sixpence a drop. However, I have a botanic friend who once invited me to go and eat strawberries off the tree in her private domain. That was in the winter, however, and the shortness of human memory is proverbial. So we shall return to our roses.

There is no flower of summer, unless it be the rose, that can compare in the strength of its associations and the place it holds in the minds of men with the flowers of spring. Perhaps, it is because the summer flowers are so numerous or because the transition from spring to summer is so gradual, compared with the sudden wakening to life that comes with the melting of the snows. Even so historic a flower as the yellow iris—the true fleur de lys—though it surpasses all other of our native flowers in the beauty of its form, is apt to be taken for granted. Yet it is probably history that holds our allegiance to the rose—or, perhaps, I should say holds the Englishman's affection for the "Rose of England," in the same way, allowing for the difference in temperament, as the shamrock holds the affection of the Irish.

I remember that, when I was a very small boy, some well-meaning relative, ignorant that my young intellect was already pledged to higher things, presented me with an elaborately illustrated history book. Somewhere about the middle of it was a full-page illustration depicting two somewhat wooden-faced young noblemen pinning gigantic cabbage roses, the one into his doublet and the other into his hat. I have not at this moment the foggiest recollection of who the distinguished aspirants to an over-rated kingship were, and I do not want to know. If you told me they were Simon de Montfort and Geoffrey of Monmouth, or Odo of Bayeux and Warwick the King-maker, I should perforce have to believe you. The point is that my young, but prehensile, mind, which refused in the face of the direst penalties to absorb the comings and goings of monarchs in their just order, boggled for long over the size and sumptuous appearance of the blossoms with which the protagonists of York and Lancaster embellished themselves.

I have no doubt that the complete history of the rose is written out somewhere, though I have never come across it. It was essentially a flower of the Near East and India; for, though China is the home of many species, including the Banksian rose, and most of the small flowered species and forms of it are found in every part of the North Temperate Zone, from California to Siberia, and as far south as Abyssinia, it was in the art and literature of the Persians, and, through them, of the Turks and the Balkan peoples that the rose first became famous. Whether the Persians ever distilled perfume from the rose I have been unable to discover. The famous attar of roses is extracted from a rose which is a native of Eastern Roumelia, and one may well believe that the industry was either revived or perpetuated by the commercial-minded Greeks from the days of Augustus and his successors. The many-petalled or cabbage rose, as it is generally called, is not, as is the case with so many other flowers, a sport which has been cultivated and improved by the horticulturists into a permanently double flower, but is a native of the Caucasus and a close relative of the common moss rose. It was introduced into England, however, in 1596, long after the Wars of the Roses had been fought and forgotten.

Twenty-two years previously the damask rose had reached Britain from Syria. It is a striped variety of this rose, by the way, that used to be grown in old-fashioned gardens under the name of York and Lancaster rose. I cannot find a trace of any rose being introduced into Britain from abroad before this date (1573); so it seems more than likely that the blossoms plucked by the rival princes were cultivated forms—cultivated, it must be understood, only in the sense of being garden-grown. Selection, natural or otherwise, was unknown in those days of the wild English roses. But it happens that of the five varieties of wild rose found in the United Kingdom, the two best known and most distinct, the dog rose (rosa canina) and the field rose (rosa arvensis), have respectively pink and white blossoms. He would, of course, be a rash man who would say that Continental briars and roses from Syria and other places visited by pilgrims and Crusaders were not frequently brought home to England and planted there long before the Wars of the Roses. Rosaries made of "haws" brought from the Holy Land or the shrine of some Byzantine saint would, no doubt, command high prices in those days, and some of the haws might easily have found their way into the ground. One thing is certain, however—that the enormous blossoms, Frau Karl Druschkis in excelsis, that the historian of my childhood clasped to the bosoms of the factious Plantagenets were a blooming anachronism.

WINSTON WARBLES.

O, who will over the seas with me and wallop the bounding Turk? The task is one, as you'll all agree, that a Briton can scarcely shirk who values his rep. for exhibiting pep when it comes to the dirty work. These slight commotions the League of Notions can hardly be asked to stay, though the burning pestle of Lord R. Cecil beckons it into the fray, while they're giving the throstle to its prime apostle in Thirstyville, U.S.A. Oh, I'll sing thee songs of Araby and tales of fair Cashmere, where the Turks are attacking by land and sea, and the Bolshies fighting our rear, and the troops we need in the Garden of Eden are keeping the Diamond clear. Then stow the tank in the trooper's hold and bully for old time's sake. You thought you'd hammered the Moslem cold, but that was a slight mistake by the statesmen bold whom the Moslem sold a pup of the usual make. Do on the trousers of braided gold, the tunic of scarlet hue, and we'll start again on the old war, the bold war, a cheap war. We'll stay in power with a nice war, the war that is always new.

IRISH GIRLS' PROTECTION CRUSADE.

The Countess of Fingall is announced to preside at a meeting in support of the Irish Girls' Protection Crusade, to be held on Monday afternoon at three o'clock at 5 Leinster street, Dublin, under the auspices of the National Council of Women of Great Britain and Ireland. The meeting will be addressed by the Provost of Trinity College, Monsignor Dunne, and Miss Hayden. The Society does useful work in helping girls who may be placed in positions of difficulty or danger. The workers this year find that they can be more useful than ever, but, unless further support is forthcoming, the Society will find it impossible to go on with its work.

GUESTS OF FINLAND.

A COMMERCIAL ENTENTE.

The party representing the interests of several important newspapers of the Three Kingdoms who recently visited Finland on the invitation of the Finnish Paper Union (issued through Mr. H. Reeve Angel, of London) have just arrived at Newcastle-on-Tyne upon their return journey.

Associated with the invitation and subsequent receptions of the party in Finland were the following gentlemen:—Colonel Gosta Serlachius, Baron Gustaf Laginskiold, and Dr. Leo Ehrnrooth, of the Amalgamated Finnish Paper Industry; Mr. Walter Ramsay and Colonel V. Favre, of the Boardmill Union; Mr. Jacob de Julin and Mr. Walter Grasbeck, of the Cellulose Union; General Rudolf Walden and Mr. Hjalmar Gronvik, of the Paper Mill Association; Mr. Berthel Fabritius, of the Woodworking Industries Association; Mr. Aarum and Mr. Brofeldt, of Gutzeit, Ltd., Ulea, Ltd.; Dr. Walter Ahlstrom, Baron Ernst Wrede, Baron Cedercreutz, Dr. Ignatius, Professor Hirn, Dr. Ivar Iverus, Igr. S. Thunstrom, Igr. Gunnar Bonsdorff, Mr. Walter Stenback, Mr. Tandefeldt, Dr. Stjernschantz, Director of the Athenæum; Dr. Ero Snellman, Mr. G. R. Snellman, Konsul Gosta Sumelius, Mr. Paavo Paloheimo, Counseiller Einar Borenius, Mr. dors Krogius and Mr. Henrik Ramsay, of the Finland Steamship Company; Mr. Onni Jalas, of the State Railway; Mr. H. M. Bell (Messrs. Price and Peirce), Mr. Ernst Nevanlinna; Mr. Cook, British Vice-Consul at Tammerfors; and Mr. Hallman, British Vice-Consul at Kuopio.

The following ladies were also associated with the reception and conduct of the party—Mrs. Serlachius, Countess Wrede, Mrs. Grovnik, Miss Grovnik, Miss Tammelander, Mrs. Stenback, Mrs. Hirn, Mrs. C. H. Mackie, Miss Mackie, Mrs. Krogius, Mrs. Ramsay, and Mrs. H. Reeve Angel.

On the evening of Monday, 7th inst., a reception and banquet was accorded the party at the Societetshuset, Helsingfors, and this function was attended by the Prime Minister of the Republic of Finland, Mr. R. Erich; the Minister of Commerce, Dr. Leo Ehrnrooth; the Minister of Communications, Mr. Magnus Lavonius; the Foreign Minister, Mr. Rudolf Holsti; the British Minister, Mr. Kidston; the British Military Attache, Major Scales; First Secretary, Mr. Hicks Beach; and the British Consul, Mr. Cyril H. Mackie, who also accompanied the party through the country.

The immediate object of the visit was that the party, by a personal inspection of the waterways, forestry, and pulp and paper mills, might be enabled to form an estimate of the part Finland can play in making good the great shortage of newspaper, from which the world generally, but Great Britain and Ireland in particular, has been suffering during the last twelve months. The occasion was further utilised to give the visitors a view of the various phases of their great timber industries, glass works, and cotton, linen, and tweed mills. The establishments over which the party were conducted included the paper and pulp mills at Voikka, Kymmene, Enso, Varkaus, and Kajana; the saw mills and glass works at Kotka, and the textile mills of Finlayson, Ltd., and Messrs. Craig, at the city of Tammerfors, frequently referred to as the Manchester of Finland. Outstanding features in these directions were the enormous water power in use and in reserve, the commodious character of all factories to which in the case of the paper industry many huge additions are in course of construction; the cleanliness, cheerfulness, and healthy appearance of male and female operatives, and the wonderful adaptation of electricity, almost every house, even in the country districts, having telephonic convenience and electric light. Immediately noticeable was the entire absence of coal, as none has been found in the country, and for some time none has been imported. A big social consideration affecting the workers is that Finland has gone virtually "dry."

In its movements through the country it is estimated that the party covered just 1,400 miles, and a few of the cities, towns, and places of interest at which stops were made may be mentioned. Helsingfors, the capital of the country, National Museum, Athenæum, and celebrated old time fortifications at Sveaborg; Kotka, from which considerable timber is shipped; Voikka, largely associated with the paper industry; Imatra (locally the accent is placed on the first syllable), famous for its waterfalls, said to be the largest in Europe; thence across Lake Saima, the largest within the frontiers of Finland; Punkaharjo, where is found the remarkable wooded ridge running for a distance of five miles between two lakes, and at some points only sufficiently wide to allow vehicles to pass; Varkaus, where large mills were inspected at about 12.30 a.m. by the light of the midnight sun; Puijo Hill, a celebrated view point; Nyslot (Olafsborg) Castle and fortifications, in excellent preservation, though associated with the struggles for supremacy by the Russians, Fins, and Swedes from the fifteenth century; Vaala to Muhos, where the passage of the rapids takes six to seven hours; Uleaborg, an important town near the head of the Gulf of Bothnia, the most northerly point of Finland visited, and Tammerfors, beautifully situated, and reflecting the very high standard of the educational life of the country.

The party's stay in Finland lasted from the 5th to the 16th inst., and was characterised by such hospitality and welcome as could only be interpreted as an intense desire to establish the most friendly commercial and social relations with the United Kingdom.

The return journey was made via Sweden and Norway. In Christiania the journalists of the city entertained the party at the celebrated Trognersateren (ski-ing station), in the Holmenkollen Hills. From the capital of Norway a special train, placed at their disposal by courtesy of the State Railways, carried the visitors through the magnificent mountain tracts in the regions of eternal snow to Bergen, a distance of 306 miles. The last stage of this remarkable tour was the voyage across the North Sea from Bergen to Newcastle, where the party ceased to be the guests of the Finnish Paper Union.

THE GAIETY THEATRE.

"LOHENGRIN."

Wagner's orchestration stands alone in its unique illustrations, by means of recurring leitmotifs, of the characters. The story of "Lohengrin" has no particular merit—it is a rather crude mediæval legend—but the O'Mara orchestra, under the baton of Mr. R. J. Forbes, made it live at last night's performance. Mr. O'Mara earned many thanks for the firm stand he made in closing the doors during the overture, so that its mystical suggestions should not be lost to the audience by the disturbance caused by late comers. The first act of "Lohengrin" can never be made convincing, but the fine work of the chorus helped to make it less pantomimic than it might well have been. Mr. Wilfrid Davies, who, in the absence of Mr. David Evans, took the part of the Herald, delivered his messages with fine declamatory force, while Mr. John C. Browner, as King Henry, maintained his difficult rôle of an aloof on-looker with dignity. His singing and acting ably represented the domineering regal spirit of the age. Miss Florence Morden played the part of Elsa with a fine appreciation of its subtleties. Her pure voice admirably fitted the dreamy soliloquy, and she invested her recital of the dream with rapturous exaltation. Miss Mabel Dennis, as Ortrud, had the only part which called for strong dramatic power. Her by-play in the first act was particularly effective, and never overdone. It was in the second act that Miss Dennis was able to exhibit the wide range of her versatility; truly, her song "Elsa" sounded "drearily and strangely through the night." Ortrud's humble address, her mystery in urging doubts upon Elsa, and her passion, were ably supported by the sympathetically-controlled orchestra. The final tableau of this act was singularly effective. Mr. John Pegg, as the god-like Lohengrin, sang with good expression and enunciation, and Mr. Alan Turner, as Frederick Telramund, had a part for which he was well suited. The prelude to the third act alone made the visit to the Gaiety worth while. Miss Morden sang with good taste in her scene with the bridegroom, but Mr. Pegg did not seem to infuse much ardour into his manner, although his singing of "The blissful strain is o'er" was full of feeling. The final avowal of his identity, however, he declaimed with dramatic eloquence.

There will be a matinee performance of "La Boheme" to-day, and "The Rose of Castile" will be given at night.

IRISH RESIDENT MAGISTRATES.

NEW SALARIES PROPOSALS.

FINANCIAL RESOLUTION PASSED.

In the House of Commons yesterday,

Mr. Denis Henry submitted a financial resolution which is preliminary to the introduction of a bill increasing the salaries of Resident Magistrates in Ireland and making certain alterations in their qualifications. At present, he said, there are 66 Resident Magistrates, divided into three classes—twenty in Class 1, thirty-two in Class 2, and fourteen in Class 3. The present salaries were—maximum, £675 for Class 1, for Class 2 £550, for Class 3 £425. The bill proposed to amalgamate the three classes, and to fix minimum salaries of £500 for the present minimum of £525, and a maximum of £700 for the present maximum of £675. There would be one class, with annual increments of £20. The increases were not very large. The salaries had not been increased since 1874, when Resident Magistrates were appointed. Their duties were extremely onerous, and at times they were exposed to very great risks.

Colonel Wedgwood—Do these salaries include war bonus?

Mr. Denis Henry—No. The war bonus will be about 25 per cent.

Replying to Captain Wedgwood Benn, Mr. Denis Henry said that the allowances were merely the railway fares on attending sessions, and subsistence allowance when the magistrates were more than twenty miles from home. It was not proposed to increase the allowances.

Colonel Wedgwood—Is the war bonus to be permanent?

Mr. Denis Henry—No. It is not proposed to make it permanent under this bill.

MR. HOGGE.

Mr. Hogge said that he considered that such a proposal ought not to have been submitted to the House at the present time. It was obviously a matter for the Irish Parliaments which they were now considering. It was also sought to give certain powers to the Lord Lieutenant, after they had heard so much in the House about Castle government.

The Deputy Speaker (Mr. Whitley) said that that had nothing to do with the present resolution. That could be dealt with when the bill was before the House.

Colonel Wedgwood said that the House was at present engaged in a measure for the reconstruction of the government of Ireland, and by this proposal they would be creating a vested interest in Ireland just at the moment when the whole question of Irish government was in the melting pot. The effect might be that they in England might be saddled for all time with the payment of these salaries. (Cries of "No, no.") This measure ought to be postponed until the question of Home Rule was definitely settled, and the whole question of raising the pay of civil servants ought to be dealt with universally and not piecemeal.

Colonel Penry Williams said that he wished to know whether these gentlemen carried on private practice, by which they could supplement their income. A salary of £625 a year was inadequate. It was only under present conditions about £300 a year. They were bound to live in a sphere of life which would enable them to command the respect of the people with whom they had to deal, though not dependent in any way upon them, and, therefore, should have adequate remuneration.

MR. LYNN.

Mr. Lynn said that he had no doubt that, under present conditions, these magistrates were not receiving a living wage. It was impossible for them to go on with the present remuneration. He and his colleagues were in favour of paying them an adequate sum. There was no reason why a magistrate in Kerry should not have the same salary as one in Antrim, when probably the one in Kerry had very much more work to do. Men who did equal work should have equal salary.

Lieutenant-Commander Kenworthy said that he should vote against the increase of salaries, although he admitted that resident magistrates in Ireland had exercised their functions pretty well up to about a year ago. One of the greatest objections to the expenditure of this money was the fact that in a great portion of Ireland the resident magistrates were not doing their work, because law was not being administered in Ireland, and there was a rumour to the effect that military law was to be applied.

The Deputy Chairman called the hon. member to order, and pointed out that the question under discussion was whether a bill authorising the expenditure of this money might be brought in.

Lieutenant-Commander Kenworthy said that he objected to this money being spent, and he was trying to take constitutional means to prevent the bill from being brought in.

Mr. Robert McLaren said that he thought it would have been better if the Government had treated the resident magistrates more generously, and increased their salaries by 30 per cent., as in the case of other civil servants.

Captain Wedgwood Benn said that he admired the courage of the Resident Magistrates, though he did not admire the infamous system under which they worked. These judges were paid out of Supply, not out of the Consolidated Fund, like the other judges, so that the Castle could keep its hand on them were further payments required. Now that the law was being administered in another way by courts operating in a rough-and-ready way to preserve order, if the area under another dominion extended, and nothing was left but what Sir Edward Carson called a jumping-off place, would they again increase their payments? He protested against the way in which these magistrates were controlled by the Castle, and said that their decisions ought to make no difference to their emoluments. Finally, he asked what would be their position as a reserved service and at the time of Irish union.

MR. DENIS HENRY.

Mr. Denis Henry said that the present cost was £37,000, and it was proposed to increase this to £45,000. The Treasury had agreed to supplement the salaries to that extent, and the bill would provide that nothing could be done without the consent of the Treasury, who could not be charged with extravagance, especially when dealing with questions of this kind affecting Ireland.

Mr. Godfrey Locker-Lampson called attention to the absence from the Government Bench of any representative of the Treasury when financial resolutions were being discussed. He did not, however, oppose the resolution.

Colonel Wedgwood asked why this particular class of civil servant was selected for an increase, instead of all civil servants being dealt with. He agreed that these magistrates had acted with courage in dangerous circumstances, but many other people had been in danger during the last five years.

Mr. Denis Henry, replying, said that the reason why this resolution and bill were necessary was because the salaries were fixed by Statute. It would be possible to increase the salaries of other civil servants without a bill.

On a division the resolution was carried by 110 votes to 8.

ZOOLOGICAL SOCIETY FETE.

SUCCESSFUL OPENING DAY.

The finances necessary for the upkeep of the famous Zoological Gardens in Dublin have for some time past been in need of a substantial increase. The Summer Fête which was opened yesterday in the Gardens was the outcome of the efforts of an energetic Organising Committee, with Lady Moore as chairman, that co-operated on behalf of the Royal Zoological Society of Ireland in evolving a means of enlarging the income devoted to the object for which the Gardens are maintained. Their efforts at the same time were directly in favour of the public, who are afforded great opportunities of pleasure and study in the Zoo.

There was a very good attendance yesterday, and although it was feared that the afternoon would become unfavourable from the point of view of the weather, only a slight downfall of rain was experienced, and the many attractions were sufficiently strong to overcome any forebodings.

Sir Frederick Moore introduced Lady FitzGerald Arnott, who, in opening the fête, said that it gave her great pleasure to come there and assist that laudable effort on behalf of the Royal Zoological Society. Falling in line with the fate of hospitals and other institutions, funds were required by it to keep up those splendid Gardens and splendid collection of animals. The appeal that day was for help to maintain those beautiful Gardens, and she trusted that it would be forthcoming in an abundant measure. In conclusion, she declared the fête open, with her best wishes for brisk business and a record return.

Sir Frederick Moore proposed, and Professor A. F. Dixon seconded, a vote of thanks to Lady FitzGerald Arnott.

The attractions were very numerous, and included mountain slide, German periscope, Aunt Sally, elephant rides, palmistry, games of skill, and children's amusements.

The stalls were as follows:—Ice Cream Stall—Mrs. Panter, Lady Taylor. Cake Stall—Lady Redmond. Animal Food Stall—Mrs. de Putron. Sweet Stall—Mrs. Craig, Mrs. McConnell. Tobacco Stall—Mrs. Bayley Butler. Zoo Mascot Stall—Mrs. Fletcher. Liberty Stall—Lady FitzGerald Arnott, assisted by Mrs. Rogers, Miss Reid, Miss Stopford, Mrs. Brooke, Mrs. Waring, Miss Gillman, Mrs. Bland, Mrs. Shinkwin, Miss West, Mrs. Gordon, Miss Reeves, Miss Barton; Fortune Telling in connection with this stall, Madam Lafon. Sandwich and Mineral Water Stall—Mrs. Williams Barrington, assisted by Lady Hawtrey Benson, Mrs. St. Clair Layne, and Mrs. J. M. Staples. White Elephant Stall—Miss MacCallum, assisted by Mrs. Agnew, Mrs. Deverell, Mrs. Jozé. Lady Campbell, Mrs. Knox-Peebles, Mrs. Pott, and Mrs. Pim also lent their services.

The ladies' orchestra was a feature of the entertainment and also the ballroom, under the charge of Mrs. and the Misses O'Carroll. Miss Kinahan looked after the cold luncheon and suppers. Mrs. Reginald Peacocke's Gipsy encampment received a considerable share of patronage, and the musical entertainments by the "Orange Pips" were well attended. Games and amusements were made enticing by Mrs. Bretherton, Mr. G. T. Moore, and students of the Royal College of Surgeons. Boxing contests and tugs-of-war by Boy Scouts were included in the long list of diversions arranged.

The bands of the Royal Hibernian Military School and the Comrades of the Great War played during the evening.

The fête will be continued to-day from 2 o'clock.

DR. MILLAR AND PARTITION.

SUGGESTED WITHDRAWAL OF THE HOME RULE BILL.

THE POSITION OF THE TEACHERS.

The Right Rev. Dr. Millar, Bishop of Cashel and Emly, addressing the Diocesan Synod of Waterford and Lismore yesterday, said—In those days godly men's hearts everywhere are calling out for harmony and fellowship. We, who should be interested above everything else in the progress of true Christianity, ought to lament the divisions, unnecessary and unwholesome, which exist, and cause enormous injury to the progress not alone of Christianity, but even of civilisation. Politicians are not the only fruitful cause of division and strife. We must have our separate churches in which people must worship, but is it essential that the children shall be educated apart? Not only is the Roman Catholic isolated from the Protestant, but the Protestant from the Protestant, with the result that an atmosphere of suspicion and distrust permeates the whole country, with disastrous results to Christianity and true progress. We are all to blame in varying proportion. We thought that true progress consisted in increase of numbers to our various communions. But the war has cleared our vision, and we now see that unless vital Christianity is behind Christian work, showing itself in humility, unselfishness, and sincerity, it is all less than nothing. It is worse. It is a positive danger to civilisation, because it is evident to the world that there is no reality in it. What this country wants to-day is true Christianity, and it is our duty, as members of a Christian Church, to show that in every detail of our parochial work we are prepared to practise it.

MEMBERING THE COUNTRY.

In this country to-day we live amidst conditions which may well cause the most profound alarm to every Christian, no matter to what denomination he belongs. We have no desire to mix in political matters, but we cannot refrain from asking the Government is this a time to dismember this small country into two parts, and to force a form of government upon people manifestly unwilling to have it. No sensible man would add to the difficulties of the Government, but surely their way out of the difficulty is manifestly wrong. Is it not possible to have this bill withdrawn, and seek the united help of responsible men of all classes and creeds to find some solution? It is true that an effort was made and failed, but yet the present times are vastly different. Then it was advisable that a settlement should be arrived at; now it is essential.

THE EDUCATION BILL.

On the Education Bill, he said that the teachers of this country, both National and Intermediate, are in a painful condition of financial distress. The Government introduced a bill which provided for their relief. Strong objection was made to the method of control provided, for it was now public property that the Government are willing to give way on this point, and we most earnestly hope that all opposition will be dropped, and an agreed measure passed at once. The patience of the teachers, especially the Intermediate teachers, is at breaking point. It was of the highest importance, he said, to the peace of the country that this question should be settled at the earliest moment.

All contentious matters were adjourned, because a large number of the members were unable to be present owing to the lack of railway facilities. The customary non-contentious reports were adopted.

LIMERICK DIOCESAN SYNOD.

DR. ORPEN AND THE STATE OF IRELAND.

The annual meeting of the Limerick Diocesan Synod was held yesterday in the Diocesan Hall, Pery street, Limerick. The Bishop, the Right Rev. Dr. Orpen, presided.

The President, in the course of his address, said—We thought that when the great war was over two years ago peace and tranquillity would succeed. Unfortunately, the state of our country is now sad in the extreme, for surely of all strife that between brethren is the saddest, and the common weal of the country must suffer intensely while strife of this nature continues. We should all earnestly pray that God may grant peace to our beloved, though distracted, land. (Hear, hear.) Continuing, the President said—With regard to our financial position in this diocese, the amounts contributed during the past year have been considerably in advance of those in previous years, but we trust that this is only the beginning of the advance, for you all know that the increases and expense of the common necessaries of life have been at least doubled, and the very modest stipends of the clergy are altogether insufficient to provide these necessaries. (Hear, hear.) If we are to continue to have educated men as the clergymen of our parishes we must be prepared to offer considerably larger stipends. (Hear, hear.) With regard to foreign missions, while it is most gratifying to hear that larger amounts have been contributed last year than heretofore, yet, on the other hand, the expenditure has been increased there, as in other fields, so as to more than balance the increase. His Lordship, in conclusion, referred to the work of the Diocesan Board of Education, and said that one Limerick diocesan teacher, at the examination by the Sunday School Society, recently came out first in all Ireland. (Applause.)

THE AMERICAN MARKETS.

STOCKS CLOSED STRONG.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.)

NEW YORK, FRIDAY.

Stocks opened irregular, and advanced 1 to 3 points, the sentiment being favourably influenced by an inquiry for Railroads and the indifference shown to high money rates resulting from seasonable requirements, but business was extremely dull in the forenoon. Coppers fell 1 to 2½ points, on unfavourable trade reports, and the reduction in the dividend on Inspiration Copper. There was activity later among low-priced Rails, and the market closed strong.

Let "Clarendo" do it again

The important point is that 'Clarendo' is once more available to nourish and bring on live stock in the unrivalled pre-war 'Clarendo' way.

The pure cereal constituents of flesh-building 'Clarendo' are at last uncontrolled, and we hope to keep plentiful supplies of our famous all-cereal cooked food at the disposal of farmers and stockraisers.

'Clarendo's' pre-war record for making live stock thrive was wonderful. Let 'Clarendo' do it again.

DUBLIN CORPORATION OFFICIALS' STRIKE.

SCENE AT THE CITY HALL.

NEW LOCKS FOR MUNICIPAL BUILDINGS.

In connection with the strike of municipal officials the City Hall, Dublin, remained closed yesterday, and pickets were on duty outside the building. The keys remained in the hands of the officials on strike, and the Lord Mayor and members of the Corporation were denied admission. Early in the day the Lord Mayor gave instructions to the employés at the Stanley street workshops to have the doors of the City Hall opened, but when carpenters went to the building for that purpose it is alleged that they were prevented by the strike pickets from carrying out their object. As a result of this, tradesmen and other workers in the employment of the Corporation were asked to assemble at the City Hall at 4.30 p.m., with a view to seeing that the Lord Mayor and other members of the Council were enabled to transact public business in the municipal buildings. At the hour mentioned a couple of hundred workmen gathered at Cork Hill, while strike pickets continued on duty outside the City Hall until 5 p.m., when, in accordance with their usual practice, they withdrew. In the meantime only a few members of the Corporation appeared on the scene.

Some time after 5 o'clock the Lord Mayor rather unexpectedly arrived at the City Hall. Those of the municipal employés who were on the scene entered the building and removed the locks from the doors, putting on other locks in their places. The Lord Mayor entered the Council Chamber, where he thanked the workmen for the interest they had taken in presenting him with the keys and enabling him to enter the building.

The Strike Committee of the municipal employés have issued a denial of the statement that any attack was made by the pickets on the men from the Stanley street workshops, to whom they claim to have explained the situation in a friendly manner.

Arrangements have been made by the Lord Mayor and members of the Finance Committee for paying the workmen this week at their respective unions. Cheques for over £7,000 have been issued to the various unions, who will keep an account of all money paid out, and are expected subsequently to settle up with the Corporation. Members of the Transport Workers' and Builders' Unions will be paid at 74 Thomas street, while the Irish municipal employés are being paid at 24 Winetavern street and the tradesmen at the Bricklayers' Hall, Cuffe street, and the clerical and other workers who are not on strike will draw their wages at 17 High street. It is understood that some of these wages were paid yesterday and that the balance will be paid to-day. It is alleged by the strikers' Committee that some of the tradesmen of the Corporation refused to accept their wages yesterday, stating that they would not accept their wages from a "scab" cashier, but no confirmation of this statement was forthcoming from the workmen.

DUBLIN STOCK EXCHANGE.

ACUTE LOCAL DEPRESSION AND STAGNATION. GUINNESS FLAT, SPINNER "LETTERS" LIVELY

Business was largely at a standstill on 'Change yesterday, and orders, except to realise, were almost entirely absent, owing to the political situation rather than the effect of increased taxation, which erroneously has been blamed for the severity of existing conditions. The Funds were sellers, and few wanted to buy. There was no support for Corporation Stocks or Banks, the markets in which were drawn blank. Guinness Ord. were "scared" back a fresh ½. City Steam was not even mentioned. Marconis were steady to firm. Home Rails, especially Pre.-Ord. Stocks, were offered, but no buying orders were in hand. Dublin Trams again established a fresh low point record. Dunlop Rubbers were pressed back to 7⅛. Textiles remain dull and weak on a preponderance of sellers. Oils and Tobaccos were active and firm spots on advices from the controlling markets the other side.

In the Funds, War Loan 5 p.c. fell ½ to 84⅛, and India 3½ p.c. ½ to 55⅛.

Dealing in Breweries was confined to Guinness. The Ord. opened ½ lower at 32½, and were sellers at 32¼ later. A few Pref. fetched 9⅞, the previous level.

In Marconis, the Ord. at 72s. 6d., and the Pref. at 64s. 6d. were unaltered.

Home Rails were almost neglected. Great Northern repeated 58½, while Great Southern eased ¼ to 48¾ at the close, sellers declared in other cases, but no response was made.

In Trams, Dublin United Ord. fell ¼ to 6½; and in Tyre, Dunlop Rubber fell ¼ to 7⅛. Parent Tyre Ord. marked 20s.

In Gas, Alliance and Dublin Consumers repeated 92s. 6d.; and in Drapery shares, Todd Burns Ord. were steady at 22s.

Among Manufacturing shares quite a number marked ex dividend. Dealing was, however, very poor in volume. Coats fell 9d. to 53s. 9d.; and the "B" Pref. repeated 19s. 3d. Spinners eased 3d. to 45s. 3d., and a big business in the "Letters" was recorded, from 14s. 6d., the initial figure, to 13s. 6d. and back to 14s., the closing level, a rise of 3d. on the day. Cottons show no rally at 44s., and Vickers at 27s.

In Trading, etc., Findlater Pref. rose 1d. to 14s., and Parkes Pref. fell 1d. to 14s. British American Tobacco Fractional Certificates opened unchanged at 20s., and were then bid up to 22s. Mexican Eagle Oil rose 1/16 to 9⅛, ⅛, and Shells ⅛ to 6⅞. Spies quoted 10s. 3d.

LONDON STOCKS INACTIVE.

The Stock Exchange has finished the week with a dull and listless appearance. Business was on a small scale throughout, and disappointment among insiders at the failure of business to widen, despite recent demonstrations in some departments, was reflected in a reactionary tendency among quotations. As regards outside factors, neither Continental nor trade advices were particularly stimulating. Gilt-edged securities were again quiet and off-colour. War Fives receded another 1/16 to 84 1/16. New scrips were rather offered, and occasionally shed ⅛. Colonials Loans were inclined to move against holders.

FOREIGN BONDS FIRMER.—In the Foreign market French Loans were firmer, though not very brisk. The Fives improved ¼ to 50½. The Fours were around 39. There were some further gains of a point, among Greek issues on the military successes against Turkey, and Russian Bonds showed firmness, though actual business was small. The Fives were up to 25½, and several other quotations were advanced ½. Far Eastern issues were still off-colour, but Japanese Loans were not actually lower. Egyptians held their ground. Mexican Loans preserved a firm tendency among South Americans. The External Fives were lifted 1 to 44. Peruvians were steadier in tone, while Argentine and Brazilian Loans had a steady to dull appearance.

Changes—Rises: French Loan, ¼ to 50¼; Greek Fives, 1 to 57½; Mexican Fives, 1 to 44; Peruvian Pref., ½ to 26; Russian Fives, 1 to 25½. Fall: German Threes, 1/16 to 9⅛.

HOME RAILS DULL.—In the Home Railway department conditions were not so good. The overnight transport debate in the House did not supply dealers with as many bull points as they had been hoping for, and the tone was more cautious, with the result that prices slipped back a little. Several Trunk and Trade Stocks left off ½ to ½ lower.

Changes—Rises: Great Eastern, ½ to 33½; Lancs and Yorks, ½ to 59½. Falls: Great Western, ½ to 79; London and North-Western, ½ to 84½; do. 4½ p.c. Pref., 2 to 89½; Midland Def., ½ to 53; North-Eastern 4½ p.c. Pref., 1 to 89½; South-Eastern Def., ½ to 29½.

CANADIANS QUIET AND MEXICANS BETTER.—Canadian Pacifics were a quiet market around 140, and Grand Trunk Stocks developed no feature, prices marking time around previous levels. Mexican Rails turned firmer after a hesitating start, and concluded with advances of 1 to 2. The former rise was marked by the Ord. at 21. There was a little realising among Argentine Rails, which registered several declines averaging ½. Brazilian Rails also encountered some realising of a week-end character. Leopoldinas were back to 36. United of Havana were unchanged.

MILD DEPRESSION STILL RULES AMONG INDUSTRIALS.

(FROM THE FINANCIAL NEWS OF TO-DAY.)

There was little to relieve the general dulness of Miscellaneous markets in the absence of business yesterday, inquiry in all sections undergoing a further perceptible shrinkage. Vickers remained a dull spot, again finishing lower on the underwriting of a new 6½ p.c. Debenture issue. United Lankat Plantations advanced on a statement that the company has received an offer of purchase, and are advising shareholders that until they hear further from the company it would be advisable not to dispose of their holdings. The market appeared to know nothing further in the matter, and a rise in the price was effected chiefly through the agency of a much wider quotation. Vickers finished 6d. lower at 26s.; and Armstrongs lost as much at 26s. also. Baldwins assenting closed weak at 44s. sellers, and Gloucester Waggons fell to 63s. in sympathy, the company being a large holder of the former shares. Transactions in Courtaulds were less frequent, the price being without further movement at 7. The decline in Spinners was carried down 1/16 to 2⅛. Bradford Dyers lost as much as 2½. British Dyestuffs 6d. at 13s., and Amalgamated Cottons ¼ at 1⅛, but Calicos were exceptionally better, closing 1/16 harder at 1⅛. United Lankat Plantations were quiet, but the price was marked up ½ to 5. Dunlops receded ⅛ to 7. Marconis took a dull appearance in the absence of support, yielding 1/16 to 3⅛. The New lost a similar fraction at 3⅛ and the Pref. ⅛ at 3⅛. Marines finished at 1⅛ ex dividend.

MINES HARDER INCLINED.

As is not unusual after a period of depression, markets took a turn for the better on the last dealing day of the week, and the tone at the close was a trifle more cheerful yesterday. So far as the Mining departments are concerned the opening was dull, and, in anticipation of a further bout of French selling, dealers in the Kaffir section took the precaution of lowering values here and there. When, however, it became evident that Paris was no longer so anxious to realise, a more reassured feeling developed. Buyers were still shy, for the price of gold showed a decline of a few...

Several Trunk and Trade Stocks left off ¼ to ½ lower.

Changes—Rises: Great Eastern, ½ to 33½; Lancs and Yorks, ½ to 59¼. Falls: Great Western, ½ to 79; London and North-Western, ½ to 84¼; do. 4½ p.c. Pref., 2 to 69¼; Midland Def., ½ to 53; North-Eastern 4¼ p.c. Pref., 1 to 89¼; South-Eastern Def., ½ to 29¼.

CANADIANS QUIET AND MEXICANS BETTER.—Canadian Pacifics were a quiet market around 140, and Grand Trunk Stocks developed no feature, prices marking time around previous levels. Mexican Rails turned firmer after a hesitating start, and concluded with advances of 1 to 2. The former rise was marked by the Ord. at 21. There was a little realising among Argentine Rails, which registered several declines averaging ½. Brazilian Rails also encountered some realising of a week-end character. Leopoldinas were back to 36. United of Havana were unchanged.

MILD DEPRESSION STILL RULES AMONG INDUSTRIALS.

(FROM THE FINANCIAL NEWS OF TO-DAY.)

There was little to relieve the general dulness of Miscellaneous markets in the absence of business yesterday, inquiry in all sections undergoing a further perceptible shrinkage. Vickers remained a dull spot, again finishing lower on the underwriting of a new 6½ p.c. Debenture issue. United Lankat Plantations advanced on a statement that the company has received an offer of purchase, and are advising shareholders that until they hear further from the company it would be advisable not to dispose of their holdings. The market appeared to know nothing further in the matter, and a rise in the price was effected chiefly through the agency of a much wider quotation. Vickers finished 6d. lower at 26s., and Armstrongs lost as much at 26s. also. Baldwins assenting closed weak at 44s. sellers, and Gloucester Waggons fell to 63s. in sympathy, the company being a large holder of the former shares. Transactions in Courtaulds were less frequent, the price being without further movement at 7. The decline in Spinners was carried down 1/16 to 2 3/16. Bradford Dyers lost as much as 2¼. British Dyestuffs 6d. at 13s., and Amalgamated Cottons ⅛ at 1⅛, but Calicos were exceptionally better, closing 1/32 harder at 1⅛. United Lankat Plantations were quiet, but the price was marked up ⅜ to 5. Dunlops receded ⅛ to 7. Marconis took a dull appearance in the absence of support, yielding ⅛ to 3⅛. The New lost a similar fraction at 3⅛ and the Pref. ⅛ at 3¼. Marines finished at 1⅛ ex dividend.

MINES HARDER INCLINED.

(FROM THE FINANCIAL NEWS OF TO-DAY.)

As is not unusual after a period of depression, markets took a turn for the better on the last dealing day of the week, and the tone at the close was a trifle more cheerful yesterday. So far as the Mining departments are concerned the opening was dull, and, in anticipation of a further bout of French selling, dealers in the Kaffir section took the precaution of lowering values here and there. When, however, it became evident that Paris was no longer so anxious to realise, a more reassured feeling developed. Buyers were still shy, for the price of gold showed a decline of a few pence at £5 3s. 7d. per ounce, and exchange rates were practically unaltered, so that it was only in a few cases that the early shrinkages were wiped out, in still fewer that improvements were substituted. Indeed, on balance, less than half a dozen gains were recorded, all the other changes being against holders. The leading financial descriptions kept fairly steady, but some of the Far Easterns were knocked about, Daggafontein being depressed, though the rumoured reorganisation is scouted in usually well-informed quarters. Rhodesians made an effort to shake themselves free from the dulness generally prevailing, but support was lacking, and while Chartered managed to improve slightly upon the overnight's showing, few others were altered.

OIL MARKET QUIET.

REVIVAL IN RUSSIAN ISSUES.

(FROM THE FINANCIAL NEWS OF TO-DAY.)

Although business in Oil Shares as a whole showed little expansion, the market, nevertheless, presented a few good features. Particularly noteworthy was the revival of interest in Russian issues. Mexican Eagles advanced smartly. After the close of the House, the Mexican Eagle Company announced a second dividend of 6 p.c. on both the Ord. and Pref. Shares. Shareholders should note that it is to their interest to instruct their bankers to collect their coupons in New York, and so take advantage of the present exchange rates. Paris was a small seller of Shells, but despite this the price kept steady on the report. The market was inclined to take a gloomy view of the remarks of the Chairman at the meeting of the Burmah Oil Company, and as a result the shares gave way. Royal Dutch further improved, but the rights were quoted lower. It may be as well to remind holders of Royal Dutch that Monday next is the last day for applying for the new shares. As regards Trinidad issues, United British suffered a sharp drop on the news of the fire on the company's property, although the message states that the property destroyed is insured. PENDING ISSUE.

BELFAST CORPORATION STOCK.

At a special meeting of Belfast Corporation yesterday it was decided to authorise the issue of £1,500,000 Corporation Stock. It is proposed that holders of various existing issues should be given the opportunity of applying for the new 5 per cent. stock, redeemable in 1945, at the price of 90 per cent., and that allotments of the new stock should carry valuable conversion rights. The Lord Mayor, recommending the scheme, said it might be thought that the terms were not sufficiently attractive, but the same criticism was levelled against their last flotation, which was nevertheless quite successful.

THE MONEY MARKET.

Conditions were quite comfortable in the Money Market, but in continued preparation for the turn of the half-year the market borrowed a further large sum from the Bank of England for a week at 7½ p.c. The Bank also reported a small business in short bills at the official rate. The Discount Market was quiet, and inclined to maintain a waiting attitude. Rates were hard at about recent levels.

YACHTING.

ROYAL ST. GEORGE Y.C. REGATTA.

It was like old times at Kingstown yesterday, when the Royal St. George Y.C. brought off the first fixture of the kind held in Irish waters since the commencement of the war. True, the event was in little comparable to the Kingstown Regatta as one remembers it six years ago, but the Royal St. George Y.C. made the best of the material available, and were rewarded for their efforts by the thorough success of what was a really sporting fixture. Happily, the weather was all in accord with the occasion, for, though the day was somewhat overcast, there was a nice sailing breeze from the westward, and the six matches which comprised the programme of events were all sailed under true racing conditions.

For the time being, at all events, the International Class racing yacht is a thing of the past, and so it came about that for the chief event yesterday the material had to be found among cruising yachts proper, and limitations as to size restricted to craft between 10 and 30 tons. Yet, as a sporting event, the race lost little in point of interest as compared with the old-time first race of the day, the inclusion in the fleet of three visitors from Cork Harbour lifting the race out of the usual. Their course, as it happened, too, in the westerly breeze provided a test at all points of sailing, and a keenly sailed race was the outcome, winding up with a close handicap finish, in which Kismet, with a handicap of 17 minutes, just succeeded in saving her time for first prize from the scratch boat, Verve. The 25-footers also had varied sailing, with a stiff beat in from the South Burford, Punctilio being a good winner at the finish, but neither the 21-footers, small cruisers, nor 17-footers had anything more formidable than a close haul on any leg of their courses, Geraldine, Ixea (on handicap), and Eileen being the respective winners, while Coquette won the Wag match, sailed round the Harbour course.

During the afternoon the members entertained their friends at the club-house, where the band of the Lancashire Fusiliers was in attendance, and a programme of rowing matches was carried through with all the vigour customary to such events.

Mr. G. B. Thompson, Vice-Commodore of the Club, was officer of the day. Details:—

Handicap for Cruisers over 10 tons and not exceeding 30 tons. Prizes—First, £15; second, £5; third, £2 10/-. Start at 1.50 p.m.

Finish:—

		H. M. S.
Verve (2nd prize) (scr.)	Messrs. Bennett and Humphreys	5 32 1
Kismet (1st prize) (17 mins.)	Mr. F. St. J. Worrall	5 48 8
Corinne (3rd prize) (15 mins.)	Mr. H. C. Fox	5 57 7
Iota (20 mins.)	Mr. A. E. Nicholson	6 3 43
Espanola (33 mins.)	Mr. H. M. Wright	—

Their course took in the South Bar and both Burford Buoys, and after a close start, in which Kismet and Verve, to leeward of Iota, were leaders away, it was simple sailing till the South Burford Buoy was fetched. Down wind, Verve had established a useful lead, but on the beat home, which was worked in short boards, Kismet did relatively better than any, and at the close of the round was only 4 mins. 43 secs. astern of the scratch boat, and so well inside her proportionate time for the distance. Corinne was third, and cut down her time from both the others, with Iota next, and then Espanola. Throughout the second round Kismet hung on well, but in the softening of the breeze, which occurred towards the close, it looked at one time as if she would lose her advantage. As it was, she had little to spare at the close, a splendid handicap finish resulting in her securing first prize by 55 seconds. Espanola finished astern of the others, and was not timed.

Match for 25-footers. Prizes—First, £5; second, £3; third, £1. Start at 2.35 p.m.

Finish:—

		H. M. S.
Punctilio (winner)	Messrs. Newsom and Stephens	5 7 45
Fodhla (2nd prize)	Mr. W. M. Curtis	5 11 14
Acushla (3rd prize)	Sir John Arnott	5 12 19
Alana	Mr. A. H. Seale	5 13 5
Eve	Mrs. G. Frazer and Mr. D. Turner	5 17 18
Darthula	Mr. W. B. Graham	5 21 50

The 25-footers made their customary keen start, in which the order away was, approximately, Punctilio, Fodhla, Acushla, Alana, Eve and Darthula. They, too, had much reaching and running in the earlier stages, coming on the wind eventually when the South Burford was rounded, and then having a stiff beat back to harbour. Here, in spite of some chopping and changing on the turn to windward, the round was completed in the same order as at the start; nor did the second round, the distance to Bullock and back, lead to any alteration in position, Punctilio winning well at the finish.

Match for 21-footers. Prizes—First, £4; second, £2; third, £1. Start at 2.50 p.m.

Finish:—

		H. M. S.
Geraldine (winner)	Mr. W. McDowell	4 27 13
Garavogue (2nd prize)	Mr. L. Gower	4 28 3
Oola (3rd prize)	Messrs. C. and J. G. Moore	4 28 30
Maureen	Mr. M. S. Orr	4 29 35
Innisfallen	Messrs. Weir and Nesbitt—Gave up.

There was no windward work, and little incident in the 21-footers match, save that in something of a mix up at the Bar Buoy, Innisfallen had some of her gear carried away, and gave up. For the rest Geraldine led practically all round the course, and was first home, but as Oola flew a protest flag, the prizes, as given above, are subject to a decision on this.

Handicap for cruisers not exceeding 10 tons. Prize, £5. Start at 3.5 p.m.

Finish:—

		H. M. S.
Lona (scr.)	Mr. R. Manders	4 40 55
Ixea (1st prize) (8½ mins.)	Lieutenant-Commander Dillon	4 45 30

The pair were practically level at the line, but Lona soon began to show in front, and was ahead at the first mark, the Bar Buoy. Ixea, however, could not be shaken off, and at the end of the round, which was all simple sailing, was lying 3 mins. astern, and at the finish was well inside her handicap for the prize.

Match for 17-footers. Prizes—First, £3; second, £1 10/-; third, 15/. Start at 3.20 p.m.

Finish:—

		H. M. S.
Eileen (winner)	Mr. J. E. Mills	4 38 30
Mimosa (2nd prize)	Mr. J. B. Boyd	4 38 45
Anita (3rd prize)	Mr. A. McMullen	4 38 55
Silver Moon	Messrs. Courtney and Pearson	4 39 30
Nautilus	Mr. W. G. Gibson	4 39 57
Rosemary	Colonel C. Samman	4 40 52

The only feature in the 17-footers match came almost at the finish, when Eileen cut out both Mimosa and Silver Moon on the leg between the Harbour entrance and the Flagship, and Anita almost succeeded in doing likewise. Up to that point Mimosa and Silver Moon were the leaders, but on the reach across the Harbour Eileen pointed higher than either, and came out ahead when they stayed round to fetch the winning line.

Match for wags. Prizes—First, £2; second, £1; third, 10/-. Start at 4.5 p.m.

Finish:—

		H. M. S.
Coquette (winner)	Mr. G. H. Jones	5 7 20
Tomboy (2nd prize)	Messrs. Barrett and Donnelly	5 7 23
Vela (3rd prize)	Messrs. Irwin and Geoghegan	5 10 59
Blue Bird	Dr. G. P. Meldon	5 13 45
Barbara	Dr. J. T. Wigham	5 14 12
Wendy	Mr. E. H. Walpole—Gave up.

The wags were sent four rounds of the Harbour course, and the finish was as above.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

INCOME TAX.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—You have published in your issue of today under the above heading a letter signed "Westmeath," in which the writer pertinently asks why we are paying income tax, or, indeed, any Imperial taxes, and adds: "If it be the duty of the subject to pay taxes, surely it is the correlative duty of the Government to defend its subjects and maintain law and order."

In this connection the enclosed copy of a letter which I addressed to the Special Commissioners of Income Tax in London, on the 21st inst., may interest your correspondent and your other readers.—Yours, etc.,

ROBERT J. KENNEDY.

Cultra Manor, Craigavad, Co. Down, June 24th, 1920.

(COPY.)

To the Clerk to the Special Commissioners of Income Tax.

Super-Tax 1920-21. Ref. 18675.

Sir,—I beg to acknowledge receipt of your reminder, dated June 18th, that you have not yet received my total income return asked for by you on April 12th, 1920. In reply I may assure you that you will receive it as soon as my agent has completed my estate return. I desire also to point out to you that my returns are furnished with regularity, year by year; that their accuracy has never been queried; and that payment of income tax is punctually made by me when due. This statement you can verify by reference to previous records, unless these have been destroyed by Sinn Fein marauders, whom your representatives in Ireland are unable to control or bring to justice.

Under these circumstances, it is only right that I should remind you of a fact which you, who live comfortably in London, seem to be incapable of understanding—viz., that we are gravely hampered in Ireland in fulfilling our financial obligations to the State by the condition of revolution and anarchy in which this country is plunged owing to the inability of His Majesty's Government to discharge the primary duty of a Government—namely, to govern. We pay taxes in order to secure the protection of life and property, the maintenance of law and order, and the proper administration of justice. I do not suppose that you ever read Irish newspapers, but even your London Press, in spite of the evident desire of a large section of it to conceal the truth about this country, reveals enough to show you that it is becoming every day more and more impossible for even the most loyal of His Majesty's Irish subjects to fulfil their duties towards the Government which shamefully neglects all its duties towards them, except that of levying taxes.

Your Commissioners complain that I have not furnished my income tax return within nine weeks of the receipt of an application for it. I fully recognise my statutory obligation to make that return, but on my side let me tell you that your Government has for twelve years neglected to fulfil its statutory obligation towards me, and many other Irish landlords, of paying the purchase money for the sale, under the Wyndham Act, of our agricultural estates, on the plea put forward by the Land Commissioners that they have not sufficient money for the purpose. I do not propose to put forward such a pitiful plea to you in connection with the payment of my income tax; but I think it will interest you to know that many of those who sold their Irish estates so far back as the year 1908, under an Act of Parliament passed in the year 1903, relying upon the pledged word of English statesmen, have to content themselves with 3½% interest on the agreed upon purchase money of their estates, calculated upon a rental which, in my case, and probably in many others, was reduced 18% for the purpose of the sale.

I think it is only right to impress the foregoing facts upon your Commissioners, not for the purpose of resisting, or even unduly delaying, payment of my income tax, but of pointing out to them and to all others who have any influence or authority in the administration of this country that what we are suffering from in Ireland, and what we most bitterly resent, is the inability of our present rulers to enforce justice and to maintain law and order, without which it is daily becoming increasingly difficult to face oppressive taxation.—I am, sir, yours faithfully,

ROBERT J. KENNEDY.

Sir,—A representative committee, with the Right Hon. Sir John Ross as Chairman, has been formed in Dublin from among the friends of the late Mr. Percy French to raise a fund to assist his family, who are otherwise inadequately provided for. The assistance of any lady or gentleman willing to help in this way is earnestly requested. Names and addresses should be sent to the Honorary Secretaries of the Percy French Memorial Fund, 16 Ely place, Dublin.—Yours, etc.,

HUNTING.

WARD UNION HUNT.

The annual general meeting of the Ward Union Hunt was held on Thursday at the Gresham Hotel. The auditors' report and financial statement was submitted and adopted. A cordial vote of thanks to the landholders for their generous support and kindly welcome was proposed and carried unanimously. A report and statement of the point-to-point meeting was submitted from Mr. B. J. O'Reilly, which was considered most satisfactory. A vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. O'Reilly for his whole-hearted effort for the success of the very enjoyable day's sport provided. After transacting other business, the meeting terminated with a vote of thanks to the Master, Mr. T. Levins Moore.

MOTOR CYCLING.

Almost every sport has its blue riband. In motor cycling it is attached, metaphorically, to the winning of the Tourist Trophy race. The first senior competition, in 1907, was won on Dunlop tyres; so was the last prior to the war (1914); and, on the resumption of the contest, after a lapse of years, the T.T. has been again captured on Dunlops, T. C. de la Hay (3½ h.p. Sunbeam) winning in record time, his average speed over the 225 miles being 51.79 miles per hour. D. M. Brown (3½ h.p. Norton), who was second, also rode Dunlop tyres. C. G. Pullin, winner in 1914, averaged 49.4 miles per hour. Mr. W. G. Harding, winner of the 200 mile reliability trial held by the High Wycombe and District Motor Cycle Club on Whit Monday, informs the Dunlop Rubber Company that he had Dunlop extra heavy tyres fitted to his 4 h.p. Triumph, and did not have the slightest tyre trouble—this, after having run 3,420 miles on the tyres without a puncture previous to the run. He adds that some of the roads were "simply awful."

The Dairy Conference has adopted a scheme for the marketing of New Zealand produce in Great Britain through the medium of a co-operative wholesale society (says a Wellington telegram).

SHERIFFS (IRELAND) BILL.

FINANCIAL RESOLUTION CARRIED.

In Committee of the House of Commons yesterday,

Mr. Denis Henry moved the following financial resolution, on which the Sheriffs (Ireland) Salaries and Allowances Bill is to be based:—

"That for carrying out the provisions of any Act of the present session to amend the law relating to the offices of Sheriff and Under-Sheriff in Ireland, and for other purposes incidental thereto, it is expedient to authorise the payment, out of moneys provided by Parliament, of annual sums not exceeding £250 each to Under-Sheriffs, and of increased salaries, not exceeding £40 per annum each, to process servers, who are also bailiffs."

He said that the resolution dealt with Under-sheriffs in Ireland, and with bailiffs, who were intended to execute decrees of the Superior and the County Courts. At present Under-Sheriffs in Ireland were appointed by the High Sheriff, and held office for a year, or during the period that the High Sheriff held the position. Generally they held office for a number of years. At present the remuneration was by a grant from the county or city, and by a sum allowed by the Treasury. In most cases £100 was allowed by the county, and about the same sum by the Treasury. In addition to that, they were allowed by the Treasury, during Assize, a sum of three guineas a day. What they proposed was that out of moneys provided by Parliament there should be paid, in the County Borough of Dublin, to the Under-Sheriff, the sum of £250; in other county boroughs £150, and in the counties £200. That was the public contribution. The total increase of expenditure involved in the proposal was £362. The savings effected by the cancelling of various grants now made would almost balance the sum the House was asked to vote. The bill had been promoted by the Government as the result of representations from various bodies representing the mercantile interest in Ireland. A Committee was appointed to investigate the question, of which the Chairman was the Recorder of Dublin, and other members were:—The President of the Incorporated Law Society, the President of the Dublin Chamber of Commerce, Sir George Fottrell, Clerk of the Crown and Peace, Dublin, and a representative of the Treasury, and it was in consequence of the unanimous recommendation of that Committee that the bill was brought forward. The object of the measure was really not so much to increase the salaries of the Under-Sheriffs, as to give them fixity of tenure, and render them not to be liable to be dismissed at the end of the year. Holding office on the appointment of the Lord Lieutenant they would become permanent officials. They would also be the Returning Officers for the county, and, having regard to the responsible duties they had to discharge, it was desirable that they should have some fixity of tenure. The Committee also recommended that men should be appointed bailiffs, to execute the decrees of the County Courts and the judgment of the Superior Courts. At present the men who served Civil Bills got £20 a year, and it was proposed to take a certain number of the best of these men, and appoint them as bailiffs at a salary of £40 a year, or an increase of £20 a year. For serving processes they got certain small fees. It was very desirable to have fairly decent men in these positions, and a salary of £40 a year was not unreasonable. They were appointed by the Sheriffs in the county. He thought that six for each county would be ample, and that would represent about 170 men. As regards the charge of £362 on the Treasury, he should mention that it was also provided that the municipalities should contribute. That was a quite distinct charge. The amount they would contribute would be slightly increased under the bill. Dublin contributed £350, as against the Government's contribution of £250. In the case of the other county boroughs £250 would be contributed, as against £150 by the Treasury. The municipalities at present contributed under Statute to the upkeep of the Sheriffs.

In reply to Captain Wedgwood Benn, Mr. Denis Henry said that the municipalities contributed under Statute to the upkeep of the Sheriff, sums varying from a maximum of £150 downwards. It was not proposed in any way to increase, beyond the figures set out in the resolution, the amount payable by the municipalities. The matter dealt with in the resolution involved merely an increase of £362 from the Treasury in respect of the Under-Sheriffs, and a sum, which he estimated at £4,000, to provide for the bailiffs. The increase would be borne by the Exchequer.

Lieutenant-Commander Kenworthy opposed the resolution on the ground that the matter should be dealt with by the new Irish Legislature that was to be set up, and that power would be given to the Lord Lieutenant to appoint public officers because of their political opinions.

Mr. Kiley was anxious to know what class of educated men they expected to obtain as Under-Sheriffs at a salary of £150 a year.

Captain Wedgwood Benn said that the Committee should be told definitely what was the number of people who were to be appointed, and how much money the proposal would involve.

The resolution was carried without a division.

MR. T. P. GILL.

At a meeting of the Agricultural Board held at the offices of the Department of Agriculture, Upper Merrion street, Dublin, yesterday, the following resolution, proposed by Mr. George Murnaghan, J.P., and seconded by the Very Rev. Dr. Daly, P.P., was unanimously adopted by the Board:—

"The Board has noted with regret the announcement recently made as to Mr. Gill's retirement. This Board has the best of all opportunities of knowing what Mr. Gill's services and personality mean to our work, to the creation of which he has himself so largely contributed; and we feel that his retirement in the present circumstances would be a misfortune to the country. He has the confidence of all sections and is a uniting influence in our work. He can be less spared than ever at this juncture. But we appreciate the risk to his health, due to his heavy labours and responsibilities, and we think some means should be found of relieving this by giving him such assistance as he may need in order that he may feel able to continue in his present position and reconsider the question of his retirement."

HALSTON STREET POULTRY, Friday.—Strike influences and railway interruption are still greatly interfering with the ordinary routine of things in this market. Supplies limited, and recent easier basis of value applies to what is coming in. Chickens only can be at all satisfactorily realised, and make 6/6 to 7/6 each for firsts, and 4/- to 5/- others. Best fat hens, 6/- to 6/6; others, 3/6 to 4/6; prime large young ducks, 4/6 to 5/6; small breed fat, 3/6; old ducks, 1/- to 1/6 each; rabbits irregular, 1/3 to 1/6 each; prime young graziers, 1/- to 1/8 according to size; young pigeons, 1/6; old, 4d.; wild, 6d. each.

DUBLIN FISH, Friday.—Fair general supplies of fish on market, including 28 packages salmon, 13 chests lobsters, 70 boxes mackerel, 160 boxes country herrings, and about 3 or 4 loads Howth ditto. Lobsters, almost for nothing, best, 3/- to 6/- per dozen; others, 1/- to 2/6 per lot; salmon, 2/- to 3/- per lb.; turbot, 1/- to 5/- each; brill, 1/- to 2/-; best black soles, 20/- to 30/-; mediums, 10/- to 15/-; slips, 3/- to 4/- per 9 pairs; plaice, 3/- to 4/- and 5/- per 4 and 8; half boxes plaice, 20/- to 40/- and 50/-; haddocks, 25/- to 30/-; codfish, 25/- to 40/-; whiting, 15/- to 22/-; conger eels, 15/- to 30/- and 40/-; ling, 15/- to 25/-; ray, 10/- to 15/-; gurnard, 3/- to 4/-; herrings, 15/- to 17/6 per box; Howth lots around 30/- per 120; mackerel, 17/- to 20/- per box.

BILLINGSGATE FISH, Friday.—Supply liberal. Demand fair. Salmon, 3/4 to 4/2; salmon trout, 1/6 to 2/8; soles, 1/2 to 1/6; slips, 1/- to 1/4; red mullet, 1/6 per lb.; live eels, 40/-; dead, 20/- per draft; turbot, 6/- to 9/-; brill, 7/- to 9/-; plaice, 8/- to 12/6; halibut, 10/- to 15/-; lemon soles, 10/- to 14/-; cod, 3/- to 8/-; hake, 6/- to 7/-; haddocks, 2/- to 5/- per stone.

BUTTER AND EGGS.—LITTLE GREEN, Friday.—There is very little change in the general situation of our butter and egg market to-day. No stint in supplies of creams, and trade requirements are readily covered, but, as before, at the manufacturing end, sellers are squeezing for full terms, and fine creams in our centre are again making 2/7 to 2/7½ and 2/7½ per lb. Medium creams from 2/6 to 2/6½, and other descriptions quoted down to 2/5 and 2/6½, according to character. Most wholesalers are refusing to accept butter with over percentage of moisture, and such can scarcely be quoted for. Factories remain 2/0½ to 2/2; some extra qualities, 2/3 per lb. Farmers' butter also in good seasonable supply, and saleable qualities are rating from 2/- to 2/3; fine cools, 2/4 to 2/4½, and separators, 2/4½ to 2/5 per lb. With regard to eggs, the market remains in a state of semi-dislocation, owing to recent deplorable quantities of stale and bad eggs, which come forward in consignments, and which has tended to make both home and shipping trade very wary and cautious in transactions, much to the disadvantage and loss to factors, who have to incur much inconvenience and expense in repicking and packing, particularly for export, most shippers now refusing to accept consignments except under guarantee. The value position over the week may be taken as—ordinary consignments of case eggs 2/- to 3/- cheaper in the main, prices being from 24/- to 27/- and 28/- per 120, whilst re-selected and packed are firm, and clear freely at 32/- to 33/- per 120. Duck eggs, a very irregular and uncertain sale, and rather like in quality.

CORK BUTTER, Friday.—Firsts, 243/-; fresh butter, 257/- per cwt.

IRISH BUTTER QUOTATION.—The Irish Dairy (Producers' and Shippers') Association have fixed for the week ending Thursday next 285/- per cwt. for choicest salted, wholesale, net, free on rail Ireland. Special dairies extra.

PRODUCE.—LONDON, Friday.—SUGAR—Manufacturing parcels slow, unaltered. HONEY remains quiet, while little or no support is accorded American syrup. Glucose steady. COFFEE—All good home trade qualities in moderate request at steady rates, but prices of export descriptions still sag under lack of support; futures steady, quiet; July quoted 95/-, Sept. 91/-, December sold 87/6, March 85/3 cwt. COCOA—Only retail transactions passing, and prices easier inclined. RICE steady; the steamer Aeonoine, containing 2,926 tons No. 1 Ordinaire Saigon, arrived at port of call sold to Portugal at 40/- c.f. and i. terms. SPICE—Pepper steady, though quiet; fair black Singapore spot 6¼d. to 6½d. as to samples; August-October steamer 6¼d., Aleppy spot 7¼d., Tellicherry 8d., Lampong 7d., white Singapore 11¼d., Muntok 11¼d. Desiccated coconut fine cut spot sellers 70/-, medium 72/6 per cwt. JUTE—Market generally unchanged from the lower prices registered, but a quiet demand was again experienced. Private cables record crop prospects as rather more favourable owing to the bursting of the monsoon. HEMP—Manila steady, though general trade was again carried on quietly. J grade July-September £62, August-October £52 10/-, K May-July £52 10/-, £51, M £47. New Zealand idle; points spot £56, fair £54 per ton; Italian nominal. SHELLAC—Market firmer; T.N. standard August sold 660/-, October 595/-, to 600/-. COPRA steady; sundried Straits June-August London sold £45, Colombo £45 10/-, August-October £45 5/-, F.M. Straits June-August Marseilles £45, F.M.S. ditto June-August Antwerp and Rotterdam £45 10/-, Hamburg £46. PALM KERNELS firmer, June-August sold £31 5/-, July-September £31 to £31 10/- per ton. RUBBER dull, and rates easy; plantation crepe spot sold 1/11½ to 1/11½, July 2/-1/11½, July-September 2/0¼-2/0½, July-December 2/0½, October-December 2/3, January-March 2/3-2/3, January-June 2/3¼; sheet spot sold 1/11½ to 1/11, October-December 2/1¼, fine hard Para spot 2/- per lb. DRIED FRUIT—Most of the recent offerings of currants have been cleared at the reduced prices, and a rising tendency is now observable. Business to arrive is quiet owing to dearness of rates required. July-August cases 45/-; English cod liver oil spot in barrels 50/-, all per cwt. Norwegian ditto to arrive sellers, American spot 145/-, June-August 145/-, July-December 142/- per cwt.; others remained without change. OILSEEDS—Linseed firm; Calcutta June-July and July August sellers £39 10/-, Bombay ditto £40 10/-. Plate afloat to Hull £36 10/-, June-July £37. Rapeseed dull at about late rates; Toria July-August Hull sellers £35 10/-, brown Cawnpore £33. Cottonseed quiet; Egyptian f.a.q. June-July quoted £18, Sakelarides 20/- per ton less; Bombay new crop spot £13, June-July £13 10/-, July-August £14.

CLYDE CRUSHED SUGAR, Friday (Official Report).—Market continues steady.

LIVERPOOL COTTON (Closing), Friday.—American slow of sale. Brazilian—Quotations of fair reduced 55 points. East Indian quotations reduced 25 points. Egyptian dull. June, 24.41d.; July, 23.87d.; August, 23.46d.; September, 22.80d.; October, 22.37d.; November, 21.78d. Sales 5,000, imports 836 bales. Market steady.

HAY AND STRAW.—SMITHFIELD, Friday.—Offerings of hay and straw this morning were of even narrower dimensions than on Tuesday, and gave less trouble in a general way with regard to weighing, although municipal officials are still on strike and Corporation weigh houses closed. Hay went out more freely at a smart appreciation in values, but prices yet in most cases can only be approximated. Strong hay figured from 9/- to 9/6 and 10/6, but for some fancy loads of Co. Dublin first crop 11/- was occasionally looked for. Old meadow hay went from 7/- to 8/6, and occasional Co. Dublin loads 8/9 and 9/- per cwt. Wheaten straw sold at 5/9 to 6/- and 6/6; oaten between 5/- and 6/- per cwt. It is not expected that there will be much country fodder brought on our market on Tuesday next owing to it being a Church holiday.

TRADE REPORT.—MANCHESTER, Friday.—Dulness is again the prevailing feature. Fluctuation in the value of silver is hampering business with China. Some offers for India are reported, but at prices which do not meet with approval of sellers. Yarn prices still tend downward, and little actual business is negotiated.

LONDON METALS MARKET.

TIN—Market ruled easier in face of renewed selling orders, though offers were steadily absorbed. Cash on balance 50/-, and forward 55/- ton lower compared Thursday's close. Cash £245 to £245 10/-, three months £247 15/- to £248 5/-; settlement price £245. Sales 500 tons, cash at £244, late July £245 to £246, three months £246 to £248, but finally at £248 10/-; English ingots £246 to £248. COPPER ruled weaker to the extent of 15/- to 25/- per ton on balance, with only moderate support accorded. Cash quoted £83 5/- to £83 10/-, three months £86 to £86 5/-, settlement price £83 5/-. Sales 1,200 tons, cash at £84 to £83 5/-, three months £86 10/- to £87, then £86; [illegible]

LEAD flat. Sales 1,350 tons, July £31 5/- to £31, September £32 to £32 5/-. SPELTER easier. Sales 1,200 tons, June at £39, September £41 5/- per ton. TINPLATES quiet; I.C. cokes prompt 71/- per box. QUICKSILVER quoted £20 per bottle.

LONDON FREIGHTS—Friday.

Chartering in homeward trades was confined to narrow limits, shippers being reluctant to increase their commitments in view of the unsettled state of home produce markets. With tonnage supplies ample for current needs, rates displayed a weaker tendency. The River Plate section ruled easy, and rates lower all round. Maize up river loading is nominally 95/- U.K.-Continent, while clipped oats cargoes were done at 100/-, unclipped ditto 110/- home, the market being depressed owing to lower prices ruling for grain on this side. American markets present a better inquiry for grain to this country at agreed rates by the Royal Commission on Wheat Supplies, while shipments are taking place from Montreal and Northern range ports to the Continent and Mediterranean at recent currencies. Canadian timber quiet at 235/- to 250/- per standard, with similar cargoes from the Gulf at 480/- to 490/- home. The American coal position is somewhat obscure, and chartering operations restricted pending further developments in the situation. To the River Plate 13 dollars 75 cents is indicated, and 15½ dollars Antwerp-Rotterdam, 16 dollars French Atlantic, and 17 dollars Marseilles-Genoa, with 20 dollars Gothenburg. Nitrate ports quiet. Cotton unaltered. Cuba sugar moved off at limitation figures. Eastern markets dull, with Bombay 100/- deadweight home, while Saigon rice to France indicates 120/- to 125/-. Java sugar ruled at 120/- to 140/- U.K. and 145/- New York. There is a good inquiry for coal cargoes from Calcutta, Australian, and South African ports to Europe at really steady rates. Mineral ore freights remain fairly steady from Spanish ports. Time charter dull, and British steamers of 7,000 tons and upwards quoted 17/6 for a period of six months' trading. Outward coal ports dull; rates easy to near Continent. Coasting rates maintained with a general inquiry. Fixtures:—The Ariadne Irene, 6,400 tons, 10 per cent. River Plate to U.K., 20th July to 20th August—100/- clipped oats and 110/- unclipped; steamer 3,100 tons, Wales to West Italy, prompt, 45/-, coal; steamer 1,800 tons, Wales to Gibraltar, 27/6, coal.

LETTER BOX THIEVES PUNISHED.—In the Southern Police Court yesterday, before Mr. Swifte, K.C., John Donohue, John Carroll, William Dixon, Stuart Royal, Thomas Nolan, and John Kavanagh, rough-looking lads, were charged by Constables Devaney and Malcolmson with the larceny of letters from various letter boxes in the city. It was stated that cheques and postal orders to the face value of £50 had been stolen. Many letters were found thrown away in St. Stephen's Green. In sending Donohoe to Glencree Reformatory, and Kavanagh, Royal, and Nolan to Carriglea Industrial School, the magistrate commended the constables on their smartness in effecting the captures. Carroll and Dixon were discharged.

COUNTY OF FERMANAGH.
FREEHOLD FARM AND SPLENDID RESIDENCE.

WE have been favoured with instructions from Mr. James Primrose to SELL BY PUBLIC AUCTION, At Three o'clock, on the Lands, On WEDNESDAY, 7th JULY, 1920, His interest in and to that valuable Farm and Residence, situated in the Townland of AGHEEGHTER, containing 22a. 1r. 0p., Statute measure, or thereabouts, held subject to the very extremely small half-yearly instalment of £4 14/3, third decade, which expired on the 1st November, 1919, payable to the Irish Land Commission.

The land has been used principally for grazing and meadow for the past number of years, for which it is well famed, and has been most remunerative to the vendor, but would do equally well for cropping purposes. There is a very comfortable dwelling-house in a sheltered position in the very best of repair, also the office-houses, which include byre for six cows, stables, loose box, turf house, car house, etc., all ironed and most suitable for the requirements of the holding.

This very desirable residential holding is situated about one mile from the important fair and market town of Fivemiletown, on the leading road to Clones. We can thoroughly recommend this farm, as it is one of the best of its size that has been offered for Sale in the neighbourhood.

Proposals will be received in writing up to morning of Sale. If found satisfactory will be declared same time and place.

Terms—For Land, a deposit of one-fourth of the purchase money will be required, together with 5 per cent. Auction fees.

For further particulars apply to
R. WOODS & CO., Auctioneers, etc., FIVEMILETOWN.

SALES BY PRIVATE TREATY.

CARNMEEN, NEWRY, COUNTY DOWN.
GENTLEMAN'S RESIDENCE, WITH FARM, MILL, &c., FOR SALE.

TO BE SOLD BY PRIVATE TREATY, VALUABLE FARM, containing 220 Acres, statute measure, in the highest state of cultivation, with gentleman's Residence, comprising 4 reception and 6 bedrooms, servants' rooms, pantries, storerooms, dairy, and garage, etc.; extensive and commodious Farm Buildings of all descriptions, fully equipped, in first-class order; 6 labourers' Cottages; also a large Mill Building, formerly used as a beetling mill and bleach works, at present let temporarily to the Flax Supply Committee as tenants at the yearly rent of £250. There is an unfailing water power, with a 22-foot fall, on the Newry River, and the present machinery for the de-seeding and scutching of flax is driven by means of a 70-h.p. turbine, which also drives all machinery, including circular saw, and provides power for the electric light, with which all buildings are fitted up and supplied. There are fruit and vegetable gardens, with orchards fully stocked.

With the exception of 12 Acres, which are held under Judicial tenancy, all the lands are held for ever, the total rent payable being £20 2/3. The Newry Navigation Company's Canal runs through the lands, which are situate about a mile from Goraghwood Station, and 2 miles from Newry. The present crop on the lands can be taken at a valuation. The premises offer a rare opportunity for any person requiring a good tillage or grazing farm, with gentleman's residence thereon, and where there is ample scope for developing any manufacturing business, with a splendid water supply.

Labour in the district is plentiful, and the neighbourhood is one of the most prosperous, peaceful, and quiet in Ireland.

Private Proposals will be received by the undersigned, who will supply full particulars on application.

TOWN OF TEMPLEMORE.
IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT.
RETIRING FROM BUSINESS.
A VERY EXTENSIVE, SUCCESSFUL, AND A MOST PROSPEROUS BUSINESS COMBINE FOR SALE BY PRIVATE TREATY.

MR. EDWARD MULLALLY, Templemore, feeling that the weight and responsibility of his ever-increasing trade has become too great and too continuous a strain on his energies, has decided to Retire from the Commercial Section of his Business, and he has now instructed JOHN WALSH, Auctioneer, to offer for SALE BY PRIVATE TREATY his immense Business Concerns, viz.:—

No. 1—That Old and Well-established Hardware and large Licensed House, and in which, in addition, is carried on Grocery, Bakery, Builders' Provider, Iron and Timber, Paints, Oils, Colours, and Glass, Farm Seeds, Agricultural Manures, etc., etc. The shop is large and commodious, and the House contains parlour, drawingroom, and eight bedrooms. There are hot and cold water supply, bathroom and lavatory, and the premises are lighted by acetylene gas.

No. 2 adjoins No. 1, and consists of "Mullally's Well-known Commercial and Family Hotel," "A Home from Home," which was originally remodelled, rebuilt, and fitted up by the present Proprietor from plans prepared by an eminent and well-known architect regardless of expense, and no detail of the plan was omitted in its construction. There are a magnificent coffee room, diningroom, lounge, parlours, and 22 bedrooms, hot and cold water, bath, lavatories, and the Hotel is lighted by a first-class acetylene plant. For the convenience of visitors there is a splendidly equipped Bar, which is open to the public. This Hotel enjoys a very large measure of public patronage from the commercial, professional, and trading classes, while its famous cuisine has never failed to exercise a scintillating effect upon many a drowsy and sullen gourmand. Attached to Hotel are post car and motor car services, and a large business in the undertaker's line is done.

No. 3 adjoins No. 2. This is a large Provision Store, where flour, meal, pollard, and feeding stuffs are kept, and a highly remunerative trade is carried on.

No. 4 adjoins No. 3. It consists of an elaborate Victualler's Stall. The stall and office are marvels of taste, and the dazzling whiteness of the tiled walls gives to the customer an idea of spotless cleanliness. Here the Proprietor has for years carried on a large victualling trade, and on several week-days customers experience, owing to the crowding, great difficulty in getting their supplies, for Mullally's Beef and Mutton have achieved a well-won fame for many miles around Templemore.

Offers can be sent for Nos. 1, 2, 3, and 4 as One Lot, and as a Going Concern, to either of the undersigned.

DESCRIPTIVE PARTICULARS.

This monster Business Combine occupies entirely one block on the southern side of the Main street, beginning just where Bank street joins. It stands in the very centre of the fairs, markets, and general traffic of the township, and has a frontage of about 150ft., and it descends to a depth of just 1,050ft at rear, and here are situated the Out-offices, all of which have been erected by the Vendor, and comprise large motor garage, stabling for 30 horses, large store house, barn, corn stores, bakehouse, hay barn, car-houses, hearse-house, cow-house, calf-house, slaughter-house, piggery, fowl-house, w.c., etc., etc.

There is also a splendid garden.

The Auctioneer begs to respectfully point out to intending purchasers—merchants, business men, and company promoters—the vast wealth-producing powers of these splendid commercial concerns. The entire Property is held for ever free of rent, except a portion at one end, which is subject to a head rent of £14 per annum. Since the Vendor took over these extensive Premises he has expended thousands of pounds in improvements. The amount of business transacted in the different departments of these magnificent concerns has grown to enormous proportions, and far exceeds any other similar enterprise in the South of Ireland. The entire buildings are now in perfect repair, and the purchaser for years will not have to expend one penny in repairs. It is, therefore, evident that the Business Property now for Sale enjoys at present the fullest noonday tide of its prosperity, and under such an auspicious condition an opportunity is now open to an enterprising purchaser to acquire a great money-making business property, which is, in reality, a rare and priceless investment, and one, too, that seldom turns up even once in a lifetime.

Intending purchasers will get an opportunity to examine Trading Accounts, Bank Book, and Auditor's Report, etc.

LAND.

If the purchaser should be anxious to acquire some land he will get an opportunity to purchase from 5 to 20 Acres on the edge of the town. Five per cent. Fees charged.

For further particulars apply to
WILLIAM MEAGHER, Esq., Solicitor, Richmond House, Templemore, having Carriage of this Sale; or to
